Homeowners Protest

Signal Installation

DISPUTED TRAFFIC SIGNALS at corner of Southgate and St. Francis Avenues in Daly City installed with TOPICs funds would cost some $19,000 to take out homeowners were told last week by city council. More than 75 petitioners argue lights are a hazard and want stop signs reinstated.

Traffic signals installed at the intersection of Southgate and St. Francis Avenues in Daly City have come under fire from a large segment of homeowners in the area.

More than 75 persons have thus far signed a petition asking the signal lights, installed using federal government TOPICs funds, be removed.

But the request is not a simple one: the city hall staff has informed Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lyett and the council.

It might even provoke officials in charge of TOPICs monies at federal levels to yank the carpet out from under future Daly City projects, assistant to the city manager Don Fleming said last week.

G Fleming later explained federal officials might be irked but probably would not cancel out further TOPICs projects.

TOPICs program are funded by the federal government. Most projects are concerned with traffic flow improvements.

The homeowners say the signal lights went in without anyone knowing about them and they are not doing the job as well as the stop signs previously installed there.

The signals are of the new "demand type," city engineer Dave Macabee explained. The lights change as traffic volume dictates.

Petitioners complain the lights change too fast.

Even the pedestrian "walk" signals change before they have had time to complete their crossing, one elderly resident said.

Councilman McRobert Stewart argued he, personally, went to the corner, pressed the "walk" button on the signal light, and had plenty of time to complete his crossing before the light changed.

Cost of removing the four signals would be some $19,000, Fleming said. Actual cost

LAFCO's Mountain Report

Prompts Mixed Reaction

A Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) staff report issued last week has sparked dismay among North County municipal officials and jubilation in conservationists groups.

Daly City Manager David Rowe expressed "shock and bewilderment" over the 23-page LAFCO report dealing with the future of San Bruno Mountain.

Bette Higgins, head of the Save San Bruno Mountain conservationist group, said she was "very, very thrill'd about it."

What the report, issued by LAFCO Executive Officer B. Sherman Coffman, says in detail is that the mountain should remain in county hands for planning purposes and be turned over to the Bayside city of Brisbane.

Both Daly City and Brisbane officials expressed a certain amount of confusion over the report.

Rowe flatly stated he was "shocked" and pointed out "it (the report) completely disregards the conclusions of the (DRA) study obtained by LAFCO and completed last November."

He said he was "happy for Brisbane" if the decision to have the mountain properties owned by Crocker Land Company "is what they want."

As for the county holding onto the properties for planning purposes, Lyett said "their (the county's) record in the planning field is not the greatest."

"I don't understand how they (the county) can put themselves up as the power in planning — inferring cities don't have the know-how to do their own planning," Lyett said.

Brisbane Mayor Bill Lawrence said he had "certain reservations" about conditions attached to the annexation of the mountain development to his city.

"I cannot, of course, say anything until LAFCO makes its decision," Lawrence said. "We have proven Brisbane can handle the mountain and I feel this staff recommendation proves something."

LAFCO's five-member panel meets on February 28 at 9 a.m. in City Hall in Daly City to either adopt or reject Coffman's recommendations.

Coffman forwarded four alternatives to the LAFCO board for consideration, including assignment of the Visitation Rancho development to Daly City's sphere of influence; assign primarily to Brisbane; assign primarily to the county's sphere of influence; and nonassignment to the sphere of influence of any municipal entity.

It is expected that the LAFCO board, composed of county supervisors Gerald Day and Jean Fassler, San Bruno Mayor George Corey, Redwood City Councilwoman Mary W. Henderson, and John P. Lindley, will accept Coffman's recommendations at its next meeting.

Emory L. Morris, long-time LAFCO member who is now on extended vacation, called the commission's failure to reach a decision at its last meeting in January, "a copout." Lindley will replace Emory during the latter's absence.

Most officials would not comment on the report until they have had time to fully digest its contents and the impact it might have on their respective cities.

Opponents of Crocker's development plans were jubilant.

"We're kind of delighted about this," said Mrs. Higgins. "We went into it to save the whole mountain. But in any good negotiations you ask for all, and get all you can."

"All three cities (Daly City, South San Francisco and Brisbane) and the county will have input (into development), and I think the county will give a good hard look at density figures. We also still have a lot of input left."

D.C. Son Tortures Mother Over a Six-Pack of Beer

A 39-year-old Daly City housewife was allegedly tortured to drive him and an eight-year-old brother to a nearby market for several hours Friday and this morning until she finally agreed to go out and buy him a six pack of beer.

Police said the episode began about 9 p.m. in the woman's modest home in the eastern section of the city when she refused to give her son some beer.

The boy threatened to harm the younger brother if his mother failed to get the beer or tried to run away.

Police investigators said the boy, besides cutting his mother ribs, her left ankle and her wrist.

The severely wounded woman managed to flee the home shortly after 2:30 a.m. and went to a neighbor's home where police were called.

The boy was sent to Hillcrest Youth Center and the younger brother, himself a victim in the incident, is being cared for by family friends. He suffered only minor scratches on his forehead.

The woman is recovering at Mary's Help Hospital.

Pacifica Council Directive

Suit to Abate S.F. Jail Near San Bruno

Pacifica City Council Monday night instructed City Attorney John Sherman to file suit to abate San Francisco County Jail near San Bruno as a nuisance.

The councilmen acted upon the motion of Vice-Mayor Stan Farber who angrily denounced San Francisco Sheriff Richard Hongisto.

Pacifica Police Chief Mel Nelson — at Farber's request — reported to the council upon what Sheriff Hongisto called a "peaceful fire demonstration" — a seven-hour binge of fire-setting and window-smashing.

The chief told the councilmen that at 2 p.m. Sunday Pacifica police were notified of a Phase 2 tactical alert, an emergency call for mutual aid police forces.

He was able to "break loose" a squad composed of three men and a sergeant who responded with 80 other local policemen. They stood at the main gate and were deployed in the prison area but had no actual contact with the prisoners. The men remained until 6 p.m., at a cost to the city of $23.70 an hour, plus about three hours' overtime.

"I was completely appalled at statements of Hongisto," Farber declared. "He boasted they there were no altercations with the prisoners — while $10,000 thousand worth of the city's property went up in flames. If they cannot take care of their facility, I think that they should move out of the county."

Farber also cited how a resident of Vallejo was killed by an escapee a few years ago, and another person who was brutally beaten "will never be the same."

Sherman declared that the jail violates state codes in many respects, and that it has never had money for repairs. It should be abated as a nuisance, he advised the council.

The council also voted to advise other jurisdictions of Pacifica's suit, including San Bruno and the county. A similar suit by the county was withdrawn 18 months ago following a mass escape from San Mateo County jail in Redwood City.

Meanwhile, Hongisto and San Francisco supervisors disagree on where to place the blame.

Hongisto said the rebellion resulted from a poor diet, inadequate

San Francisco County Jail opened inside, it was reported earlier.

San Mateo authorities were plainly upset at the whole incident, and indicated that it was a ploy to force Mayor Joseph Alioto to fatten the jail budget.

Shortly before noon yesterday, the inmates exploded in a wild seven-hour binge of setting fires and smashing windows.

In the carnage that followed, eight persons were reported injured and damage in the tens of thousands of dollars resulted.

San Mateo County Sheriff Reuben Greenberg estimated damage today to be up to $300,000.

San Francisco County Sheriff Richard Hongisto reported damage of $20,000.

Greenberg said inmates broke into the jail's medical supply room and stole large quantities of drugs, food and cigarettes.

Around 11 a.m., with fewer than a dozen deputies on duty to guard the 375 prisoners, some inmates in the north wing set fire to mattresses and papers, smashed windows and began banging, eating utensils on bars and yelling.

Jefferson Trustee Board Meeting Illegal, DA Says

Deputy District Attorney Thomas F. Casey Wednesday told trustees of the Jefferson Elementary School District it was his opinion they had held an illegal meeting to discuss the employment status of a district employee.

The meeting was held last October at the district administration building in Daly City for the purpose of discussing a personnel matter, namely charges brought against Mrs. Marion Armstrong.

On the basis of Mrs. Armstrong being denied the privilege of having the hearing held in public, as she had insisted upon, Casey said continuance of the session behind closed doors was illegal.

The Ralph M. Brown Act, the state anti-secrecy law, stipulates that a meeting to discuss the possible termination of an employee cannot be held in private if the employee demands a public hearing.

Mrs. Armstrong had asked that the meeting be held in public and her request was ignored.

Both trustees Dorothy Adams and Beverly Forrester had objected to the meeting but stayed to "protect Mrs. Armstrong's interests," Mrs. Adams later explained.

Casey's statement that the board had held an illegal session was met with light applause from the nearly-filled meeting chambers at City Hall.

Casey had been asked to attend the Wednesday meeting to discuss with the board the findings of a panel of inquiry conducted to probe the leak of material from that meeting.

San Bruno Council Opposes Route 380 Link to School

San Bruno Council, in an otherwise routine meeting, took specific stands Monday on Interstate 380 extension to the airport and also on a BART train yard.

As to the 380 routing, the council said it will oppose a proposed connecting link that is planned to go through school property south of Belle Air School in the vicinity of Seventh Avenue.

This route, which includes Seventh Avenue, is shown on a model on display at Tanforan Shopping Center by the State Division of Highways. Agreement with the state says that an encroachment on city property must be done with city approval.

The proposal for a rapid transit train yard on San Bruno city property — or Millbrae or Burlingame property for that matter — was criticized by Mayor George Corey.

He said he had discussed the proposal with Burlingame Mayor Irving Amstrup and both agreed that such a facility "should be placed where it belongs — on airport property."

He said such a stand will be taken by all cities abutting the airport.

Corey also was authorized by his council to cast a vote in opposition to the proposed consolidation of the county's courts.

In other business, the council heard a plea from conservationist Sylvia Gregory urging that an official city representative attend a March 6, 2:30 p.m. meeting of the San Francisco Airport Commission at San Francisco City Hall, Room 282, concerning expansion of San Francisco International Airport.

Approved a low bid of $7,912 for the tiling of six bathrooms and walls in city park toilets. The bid was $12 above the engineer's estimate and money for the project will come from revenue sharing funds.

Assured Environmental Committee Chairman Elmer Butler that San Bruno, not Millbrae, was the first to join the Environmental Quality Coordinating Council, saying it had done so several months ago when the city created its environmental committee.

Airport Limo Service Okayed

Airport limousines, a new foreign service rotunda, and plans for providing "peace officers" to guard San Francisco International Airport's boarding gates were approved last week by the city's Airports Commission.

Airports Director William Dwyer won commission approval of a 90-day temporary agreement he has worked out with limousine operators.

He asked for approval of the temporary contract only so that a more permanent agreement can be prepared and offered for public bid.

Dwyer said the proposal will allow any limousine operator to deliver customers to the airport but will permit only members of the Associated Limousine Operators of San Francisco to solicit customers.

Although no agreement has yet been reached, Dwyer explained confidence that a solution will be worked out.

Airport commissioners approved expenditure of $330,000 by Japan Air Lines to build new passenger boarding facilities in a portion of the international pier now occupied by Pan American and Qantas.

They approved an $847,500 contract for completion of the airport's upper "loop road" circling the central parking garage, upon Dwyer's assurance that work on the road will not interfere with simultaneous construction of additions to the garage and a new air traffic control tower atop it.

13-Story Buildings Planned for Bruno

By BOB PETERSON

The number 13 has no superstitious connotation for the A. Epstein Companies, Inc.

The firm plans two 13-story office buildings to be located in San Bruno's new Bayhill Shopping Center tract.

The buildings, which will be the West Coast home of the A. Epstein Companies, will be located on the north side of the intersection of San Bruno and Cherry avenues. The firm now rents office space at 877 Mahler Road, Burlingame.

These structures, when completed, will be the tallest high-rise in the city. Ironically, right next to where this firm plans to build stands the present tallest structure, an uncompleted nine-story building that will house Aetna Life Insurance Company.

Representatives of the Epstein Corporation, the parent organization for several building and design subsidiaries, made their first pitch for their project approval at a Tuesday night study session of the San Bruno Planning Commission.

The project is planned in two phases, and will include a four-story parking structure to serve both office buildings. Construction of the first phase, one entire building, was estimated to take one year.

Spokesman Brant Kelehar said it is anticipated that it would take two years to get the building occupied and it would have to be at least half-occupied before construction would start on the second highrise.

Another spokesman, Louis Kerner, described the proposed structures as having "a tweed texture." He also explained plans for a garden atmosphere between the buildings which would include trees, shrubbery, a fountain, reflecting pools and a multi-level plaza.

It was described as "desirable for office workers to sit in the sun during lunch hour."

Commissioner Bill Cox questioned the building priority as it affected parking. He claimed that after the first structure is built, there would be no place to park during construction of the second phase.

Kelehar acknowledged the problem, but said that if the first building is successful, before it is 50 per cent occupied work would begin on the parking structure. He estimated that work would take four to five months.

Another concern was large pane glass panes possibly coming loose and sailing across the open spaces. That fear was countered by saying that windows would be of a size "that can be restrained very easily."

Earthquake damage possibilities also were aired. But that concern was minimized by an explanation that the type of construction planned includes a concrete core imbedded in the ground.

It was pointed out that the type of construction will be similar to that used in building the Bank of America building in Managua, which withstood the recent earthquake.

But why 13 stories? "You have to have it high enough to justify the land and building costs," said Kelehar. "Land is rather expensive."

It was pointed out that the type of construction will be similar to that used in building the Bank of America building in Managua, which withstood the recent earthquake.

But why 13 stories? "You have to have it high enough to justify the land and building costs," said Kelehar. "Land is rather expensive."

Spokesman Brant Kelehar said it is anticipated that it would take two years to get the building occupied and it would have to be at least half-occupied before construction would start on the second highrise.

Another spokesman, Louis Kerner, described the proposed project as having "a tweed texture." He also explained plans for a garden atmosphere between the buildings which would include trees, shrubbery, a fountain, reflecting pools and a multi-level plaza.

It was described as "desirable for office workers to sit in the sun during lunch hour."

Commissioner Bill Cox questioned the building priority as it affected parking. He claimed that after the first structure is built, there would be no place to park during construction of the second phase.

Kelehar acknowledged the problem, but said that if the first building is successful, before it is 50 per cent occupied work would begin on the parking structure. He estimated that work would take four to five months.

Another concern was large pane glass panes possibly coming loose and sailing across the open spaces. That fear was countered by saying that windows would be of a size "that can be restrained very easily."

Earthquake damage possibilities also were aired. But that concern was minimized by an explanation that the type of construction planned includes a concrete core imbedded in the ground.

Belle Air Residents 'Live in Panic'

By BOB PETERSON

That whole section lives in constant panic. Those people don't know from the second to the fourth Monday of the month what will happen.

The reference by San Bruno Councilwoman Marge Kozkowski concerns the Belle Air section of San Bruno. The statement was made at the February 20 meeting of the city's planning commission.

Regularly meeting on the second and fourth Mondays of the month, the commissioners met Tuesday because of the Monday pause that viewpoint.

"Belle Air could be very habitable," said Mulqueeney, in pointing out that he doesn't believe the city has to have a certain percentage of its land area set aside for industrial use.

Mulqueeney said he was of the opinion that the city's tax base could be adequately supplement-

dents of the area. Tuesday night from shopping centers and office complexes, rather than from industry.

"San Bruno now has the Tanforan Shopping Center, and it looks like it may have office complexes," said Mulqueeney, after the A. Epstein firm announced plans for two 13-story office buildings.

The city planner said that he thought the area north of San Bruno Avenue "seems to be reasonable for industry." He noted that parts of that section of the city was presently being used for industrial.

"Perhaps only these areas north of San Bruno Avenue should be considered industrial," suggested Mulqueeney. "Just because other cities have a need for industrial doesn't necessarily mean San Bruno needs to zone in future industrial."

Mulqueeney cited the recent state noise law affecting noise muffling requirements on airplanes that supposedly will reduce noise levels, and make Belle Air living "habitible." He indicated that more noise would be likely from the elevated Interstate 380 freeway than from overhead aircraft by 1985.

Mulqueeney also noted that it is a desirable area for the fact it is one of the few places on the upper Peninsula "where people can buy homes for under $30,000" and people have this need," he said.

Commissioner James Hensel took the opposing viewpoint.

"Unless there are drastic improvements in the drainage, it's going to be impossible to develop it as far as residential use is concerned," said Hensel.

"Millions of dollars are being spent on noise and air pollution," said Hensel, an employee of United Airlines, who said he plans to retire from that firm in August.

"The airline is going to win the battle," he said. "The responsibility lies more with the people adjacent to the airport. The airport was here before San Bruno existed."

Hensel also made reference to what he called "the story going around" that Belle Air School was "on its way out." Mrs. Kozkowski, who is a former school board member, said that is not true. "The school district is waiting for the planning commission to do something so they (school district) can make their 15-to-18-year long range plans," she said.

Commissioner Henry Hein concurred with Mulqueeney's thoughts. "South of San Bruno Avenue as a residential section seems a valid suggestion," he said.

Commissioner Leon Miller, a member of a commission land use committee said the committee thinking was that the area was deteriorating.

SSF Woman Enters Diet Competition

Mrs. Roberta Ballestrazze of South San Francisco has been named a contestant in the second annual Mrs. Diet Workshop of America contest.

The competition will be March 3 at Breuner's furniture store in Serramonte among diet workshop contestants from all over the Bay Area. The sponsor is the Diet Workshop of San Francisco.

Mrs. Ballestrazze, who has lost 55 pounds so far in the program is part of a group that meets Mondays at the United Community Methodist Church in San Bruno, sponsored by the YWCA.

Part of the March 3 competition will be diet desserts submitted by the contestants, both men and women, and cooked from recipes they have devised themselves.

The area winners will meet for national judging by the Diet Workshop national organization later next month in New York City.

SSF Boy Hurt In Collision

A 17-year-old South San Francisco youth received major injuries in a head-on auto collision at Newman and Alta Loma drives in South San Francisco last Tuesday morning.

James Boike, 323 Arbor Drive, was rushed to Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco for treatment of his injuries. He was transferred to Redwood City Kaiser where he was reported in good condition after being treated for several fractures.

According to police, Jacqueline Pettinari, 33 Conrad Court, South San Francisco, was southbound on Newman. Boike was northbound. Mrs. Pettinari was making a left turn onto Alta Loma, and the two cars struck head-on, with Boike being thrown out of the car.

Hearing
Continued

The preliminary hearing on the murder charge against Sandra Johnson, 26, South San Francisco, has now been continued to March 27.

Gary Johnson, her husband who is charged only with a narcotics offense in the same case, appeared in court for the preliminary hearing which was scheduled Feb. 20. His wife, who is free on $15,000 bail, however, failed to make her appearance.

South San Francisco detectives explained that they had been notified that Mrs. Johnson was in custody of San Francisco police. She had been reportedly arrested in connection with a Mission neighborhood burglary.

Her attorneys requested the continuance assuring Judge F. Jose de Larios of the Northern Judicial District Court, that the delay would enable Mrs. Johnson to work out her problems with San Francisco authorities. Mr. Johnson is free on $5000 bail.

Mrs. Johnson was charged with the Thanksgiving Eve murder of Michael Raszynski, 24, 309 De Nardi Way, South San Francisco. She was accused of slipping a drug into his drink at a local bar.

Proposals for limiting construction around San Mateo County's three airports may be adopted March 28 by the county's Regional Planning Committee. The meeting will be held at Burlingame City Hall.

The proposals are contained in an "interim" land use plan prepared after months of hearings by the Airport Land Use Commission, acting as a sub-committee of RPC.

County Planner Eugene Masciarelli said the Land Use Committee's interim plan had been reviewed by the RPC executive committee February 14 and was recommended for adoption by the full commission.

If adopted, that plan would prevent or limit construction of certain types within areas that are defined as noise impact areas.

The noise impact areas are defined by computer forecasts, said Masciarelli.

When actual noise measurements are available, the "interim" plan can be modified to reflect actual noise patterns and intensities.

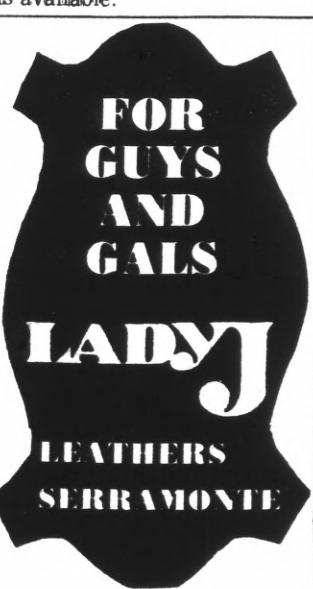

Objections to the proposed interim plan have come from Half Moon Bay, Foster City and Redwood City, which are close to Members of the Airport Land Use Commission point out that airports, and from South San Francisco, with some neighborhoods near San Francisco International.

Among the objections voiced regarding the smaller airfields was the fact that noise impact projections are based on numbers of aircraft movements far in excess of present air traffic. This effectively and unfairly increases the size of the "noise footprint," city spokesmen say.

Dr. Maurice Garbell, noise consultant for South San Francisco, said the projected noise patterns for San Francisco International are also unduly large.

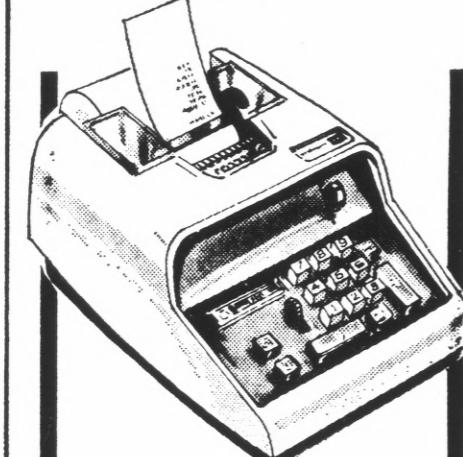

In adopting the plan, members of the Airport Land Use Committee emphasized that it is a temporary set of rules, required by state law, and will be modified as soon as factual data is available.

Millbrae in Ecology Council

Millbrae joined the Environmental Quality Co-ordinating Council Feb. 20, over the objections of her mayor.

The vote was 4-1, with Mayor Bernard Esser casting the negative ballot.

Although he tried to make his ethical considerations clear, he failed to convince other council chairman ask for Millbrae's members.

support as the first city in North San Mateo County to take part in EQCC and said he did not think it proper for the city to do so.

After they voted approval while he voted disapproval, Mayor Esser said to Mrs. Debrick:

"Well, you've got me as a member, and the city too."

The city's membership in the environmental group was proposed by freshman Councilman Leo J. Ryan, who is setting up Barney Spera, and seconded by veteran William Glang.

Spera pointed out that membership will cost the city "only" a little over $8 per month.

In an earlier action, Mayor Esser said he and City Administrator Richard Watson will go to Washington, D.C., in early March to seek federal help with the city's continuing landslide problem.

Esser said he and Watson had conferred with Congressman Leo J. Ryan, who is setting up appointments in Washington. "We will tell them what we think of a situation in which federally subsidized insurance companies are disclaiming the claims which it was represented to us would be honored," he said.

Esser referred to the landslide insurance claims filed by local citizens of the Conejo Drive area, who had bought federally backed insurance after their property was declared a "disaster area" last year.

Despite state assurances that their property would be covered, residents soon found that the private firms who provide the insurance would not honor their claims.

Esser and Watson will confer in Washington on other civic problems, as well, the mayor noted.

Because neither will return to Millbrae in time for the March 6 council meeting, that session has been re-scheduled to March 8.

Meanwhile, the mayor and Spera will review the "environmental impact report" on, "at the San Francisco International Airport expansion plans, for comment at the next session. Esser invited other council members to view the report also, but commented that it is "massive."

Councilman Art Lepore wrung from the council an apparent approval of the "controlled growth" policies of the Association of Bay Area Governments, and leaves it up to local jurisdictions to decide whether they want controlled growth, or unrestricted expansion.

"The fact that they put a population figure in there indicates that is how many people their experts feel should be," he said, and leaves it up to local jurisdictions to decide whether they want controlled growth, or unrestricted expansion.

Nazi Harassment Charged

Richard Prosser, Executive Director of the California Junior Statesmen, sponsors of a seminar at Skyline College Saturday, has charged the American Nazi Party with attempting to disrupt the affair.

Prosser said the Nazi party, based in Arlington, Va., had harassed him for several days last week prior to the conference with thinly-veiled threats of violence against one of their members—a young Jew.

Palo Alto police verified that a report had been made last Tuesday by Prosser naming the National Socialist White Peoples' Party in a disturbing peace complaint.

Prosser said the threats had affected attendance at the seminar to a degree even though location of the conference had been kept "relatively quiet" until shortly before it was scheduled.

The party spokesman, identified by Prosser as a "Ray Sullivan," wanted to have several of his members attend the conference in Nazi uniform and distribute literature.

There were fears the presence of the uniformed members on campus might spark a disturbance, Prosser said.

He was told by the National Socialist White People's Party spokesman that the college facility was being provided free of charge and they (the NSWP) had a right to attend.

"Inasmuch as we were a non-profit organization we were entitled to use the facility free of charge. But we found that by paying the usual charge we would be able to control who attended and who did not. So we paid the charge and barred the Nazi Party from coming here," Prosser said.

After allegedly receiving the threats, Prosser turned the matter over to Palo Alto police, he said.

"Once Mr. Sullivan learned of this he informed us he would not interfere with our conference and also he was leaving the state," Prosser said.

Gun Death In Pacifica

A 19-year-old Daly City youth about 2:15 a.m. to find Almarez lying on the floor, dead. A .38 caliber blue steel revolver was on the floor beside him. Four other young men were in the room with him. One of them had notified authorities of the shooting. One man told the coroner that Almarez had been "fooling around" with the gun.

Pacifica police and a county deputy coroner reported that they arrived at the apartment at

Protection Of Sources Said Vital

By FRANK LAPIERRE

Newsmen should have the absolute right to protect their sources of information. J. Hart Clinton, editor and publisher of The Times, told more than 100 participants of the California Junior Statesmen Conference at Skyline College Saturday.

And he would go to jail to protect that right if necessary, Clinton, an attorney, said.

The statement came during a 90-minute panel discussion among Clinton, United States Attorney James L. Browning and Donald D. Disler, a trustee of the CJS and member of the National Conference on Crime and Delinquency, concerning "The Government Versus the Press."

Much of the exchange between Clinton and Browning centered around the role of the modern-day reporter and his obligation to protect the confidentiality of news sources from all sides—including federal and local grand juries.

Clinton favored absolute protection for newsmen and felt strong "shield laws" are needed.

He pointed out several of these laws were now being studied in the State Legislature and Congress.

But Browning, whose duty it is to prosecute criminals for the federal government, argued that no newsmen should have an absolute right to ignore a summons to appear before a grand jury regardless if he or she answers any of the questions asked.

It was Oliver Wendell Holmes who said, "no man has the right to cry fire in a crowded theater," Browning said.

Browning said he opposed a law that would make a newsmen exempt from revealing sources involving criminal activities and pointed out "we're not out to muzzle the press."

"A segment of the press seems to forget we are trying to punish criminals," Browning said.

If harassment and jailing of reporters is allowed to continue Clinton warned, "the ability of newspapers to disseminate the news will be impaired."

There has been a rash of "gag orders" issued by the courts, Clinton said.

He said judges seem to be leaning more toward protection of defendants and the dignity of the courts than they are in protecting freedom of the press.

"How sacred do we think the press is?" Disler asked.

"I want to dissipate thinking that the press is sacred. Our job is to explore corruption," Clinton said. "Unless we can get shield laws we aren't going to get tips. You aren't going to get people to talk to them (reporters)."

The question of freedom of the press dates back several hundred years, Disler pointed out. Recent refusals of reporters to disclose sources for news stories has led to today's skirmishes between the government, courts and press, Disler said.

Neither the First nor Fourteenth amendments to the Constitution are "absolute" in their protection of freedoms, it was agreed.

However, there are sufficient legal laws now on the books to offer protection to citizens, Clinton explained.

In summation, Clinton told students from various high schools in the Central and South Peninsula attending the day-long seminar, that there has been too much adverse criticism of the press in recent years and warned that the public will not get the news "if they (the courts) keep putting reporters in jail."

Judge Commands Daly City Policeman in Arrest Case

Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan refused Thursday to dismiss narcotics and possession of a gun charges against two men whose attorneys contend they had been stopped in their car without sufficient cause by a Daly City policeman.

Giant Band Festival at Serra High

In fact, Judge Ragan praised the efforts of the officer, Thomas Barner.

The arrests of Glenn Johnson and Roger Welch occurred recently after Barner noticed a woman twice walk slowly around a bank in Daly City, looking into the windows. She repeated the process at an adjacent store, then got into the car containing the two men.

Barner stopped the vehicle, reporting he discovered a gun and marijuana in the vehicle. He arrested the trio, but charges against the woman were dropped.

The defendants' attorneys, Joseph Gruber and Robert Kane, sought dismissal of charges of illegal possession of a gun, possession of marijuana for sale.

Purpose of this second annual band fest is to enrich classroom programs through exposure to the work of different high school groups, according to Philip Garry, chairman of Serra's music department.

He stressed that the day is not one of competition but provides a real learning opportunity for instrumental students, giving them a chance to share their musical experiences with others.

Water Line Flushing Set

North Coast County Water District personnel will flush water lines throughout the city of Pacifica from March 5 to March 30.

District officials said some discoloration of water will be present during the operations but will not last for more than a few hours in each area.

Residents are warned not to wash their clothes when workers are flushing water lines in their neighborhood.

Lines will be flushed from March 5 to March 9 in the Westview, Fairmont, Fairmont West, Edgemar, Pacific Manor and Manor Village areas. From March 12 to March 16, lines will be flushed in Sharp Park, Fairway Park, Vallemar, Rockaway Beach and Pedro Point districts.

Lines will be flushed in Linda Mar and Park Pacifica areas from March 19 to March 30.

Students from more than 20 schools in San Mateo County will be participating in the March 3 benefit "Happiness Walk," according to the local United Cerebral Palsy chairman, James Innis.

Student committees at each school are handling details of promoting the event and enrolling walkers. Those students enlisted for the walk are asked to obtain sponsor pledges to contribute to the cerebral palsy organization on the basis of the number of miles completed by the walker. Entry blanks contain a parent's permission form which must be completed as part of the student's registration for the event.

The 20-mile course for the walk starts and finishes at Borel Place in San Mateo. The route will be monitored by more than 50 volunteers who will assist in recording walkers' mileage, serving lunch and refreshments to the walkers, and providing safety and first aid stations along the route.

The 20-mile route will take walkers through the cities of San Mateo, Burlingame, Belmont and San Carlos. Lunch will be served at Bay Meadows Race Track. On their return to the starting point, walkers will receive certification of their completion of the course. The certification is for presentation to sponsors for collection of the contributions pledged to the cerebral palsy organization.

More information and registration forms for the "Happiness Walk" can be obtained by contacting the United Cerebral Palsy office

Beth Israel-Judea is planning a Shabbat Family Dinner on Friday evening, March 2 in Fellowship Hall at the Temple on Brotherhood Way.

Families of the congregation will join together for their Sabbath meal at 6:15 p.m.

This unique event will include the blessing of the children by the fathers, the lighting of the Shabbat candles by all the mothers, the group singing and the short worship service followed by Israeli folk dancing led by Zeev ben Siemon.

Arrangements for this affair are being coordinated by Chairlady Mrs. Lawrence Nissim and her committee, including Mmes. Robert Block, Hartley Fleischmann, David Hanak, Seymour Hirschman, Edward Kellar, Owen Rothberg, and Jack Webber.

Reservations may be arranged by calling Mrs. Nissim at 756-5897.

March 10 is the date set for the Brotherhood Annual Purim Ball. Beginning with cocktails at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 8 and dancing to Al Borelli's orchestra, a gala evening is planned. Reservations may be made for a donation of $8.50 per person by contacting the Temple office (586-8833).

CHAIRLADY MARIE LORETTA and Committee Members Gloria Brady and Vicki Chavez prepare final arrangements for the Hillside Homeowner's Improvement Association dinner dance March 3 at the Italian American Social Club, 25 Russia St., San Francisco. A Mexican theme will highlight the event. (Brooke Photo)

Big Brothers Worker to Talk to PWP

Mrs. Carol Weber, field director-psychiatric social worker of Big Brothers of the Peninsula, will be the guest speaker at the March 9 meeting of San Mateo County Chapter 54 of Parents Without Partners, Inc.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at Parkside School, 1685 Eisenhower St., San Mateo (near So. Norfolk Street and 19th Avenue Freeway).

Mrs. Weber's presentation will be a sample orientation meeting about Big Brothers including such topics as: eligibility requirements for acceptance; purpose of the program; processing procedure; expectations from Big Brothers and their Little Brothers regarding their relationship; and matching procedures. A question and answer period will follow.

Mrs. Weber has been associated with Big Brothers for a year and a half. Previously she spent three years with the Mt. Clemens School District in Michigan as a psychiatric social worker. She obtained a Master's Degree in Social Work from Michigan State University. Married, she and her husband, Jeff, reside in San Carlos.

The evening's program is open to the single parent public. Parents Without Partners, Inc. (PWP) is an international, non-profit, non-sectarian educational organization dedicated to the welfare and interest of single parents and their children.

Good morning good cooks. Most of us have stacks of recipes that we collect from newspapers, magazines, advertisements, etc., always planning to try them some day. Recently I found one that sounded and looked so good that I tried it immediately and now recommend it to you good cooks.

PARMESAN BURGER CASSEROLES

1 lb. ground beef
One-third cup dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 cup grated parmesan cheese
1 egg, slightly beaten
3 cups hot mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Cherry tomatoes
Mushrooms
Green pepper, cut in chunks
Combine the one pound ground meat, one-third cup bread crumbs, one-fourth cup each chopped onion and parmesan cheese and egg; mix well. Shape into 4 patties; broil until done. Combine the three cups hot mashed potatoes with the two tablespoons parsley. Place in 4 individual casseroles. Top each with meat patty. Broil until potatoes are lightly browned; sprinkle with additional cheese.

Alternate tomatoes, mushrooms and green pepper on oven-proof skewer; broil until hot. Place skewer in meat patty. 4 servings.

ANOTHER RECENTLY tested entree is this fish bake. It is quite attractive and most delicious.

HERBED FISH BAKE

2 tablespoons butter
2 pounds frozen halibut steak, 1-inch thick, thawed
1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
3 tablespoons mushroom liquid
2 tablespoons regular all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon savory
1/2 teaspoon tarragon
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups dairy sour cream
Paprika
Lemon slices
1/4 cup chopped parsley

In a large shallow casserole melt the two tablespoons butter; add the two pounds thawed halibut. Drain the 4 ounces mushrooms, reserving 3 tablespoons liquid. In a bowl combine mushrooms, mushroom liquid, two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon each savory and tarragon and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Gently fold in the one and one-half cups sour cream. Spoon over halibut; sprinkle with paprika. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Remove from oven; dip lemon slices in parsley and arrange on halibut. Serves 4.

Note: if fresh fish is used, 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) of butter is needed.

THIS ATTRACTIVE and delicious cake looks and tastes like a lot of mixing and fixing went into its preparation. Not so, it's very easy to make.

GLAZED APRICOT NECTAR CAKE

1 lemon flavored cake mix
One-third cup sugar
1 cup apricot nectar
1/2 cup salad oil
4 eggs
In large mixer bowl combine the cake mix, one-third cup sugar, one cup apricot nectar and one-half cup salad oil. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed. Add the 4 eggs, one at a time beating after each addition. Pour into greased and floured 10-inch angel cake pan. Bake 325-degrees for 1 hour. Cook on rack, right side up for 15 minutes and remove from pan. Glaze — Combine 1 cup powdered sugar with the juice of one lemon and mix well. Pour over top and sides of warm cake.

Terra Nova Topics

By DENISE BARR

David Harris spoke to many Terra Nova students, parents, and faculty during activity period on February 20.

Harris spoke on the need of prison reform. He was a convict in California and Texas prisons because of draft evasion charges.

He also participated in four strikes, demanding changes in the prison program.

Harris said, "The most common reasons for strikes are: rotten food—the harder work you do, the worse the food is; very bad medical treatment—prison doctors are very often wrong in diagnosing a problem; and harrassment from the police."

He made a lot of negative statements about prison, such as, "In work prisons, the food is bad. This is a time when a man needs his strength. At one prison we saw the police drive up and haul off meat that was supposed to be for us on the work gang." 40 per cent of the convicts who get out come back because they break out. Prison does not rehabilitate a convict in any way to face the outside world. Sure, you can get newspapers, about three days late." "Fifty per cent of the people in prison should be in a mental home." and "No one should be put in prison for more than 18 months for a first offense."

Two of the resolutions Harris brought up for the mistreatment of convicts was to allow the public to come in and view the prisons. (This way, the public could see what is being done with their money and have some say in the way a prison is run.) And to have a court made up of inmates. Since the inmates have to live in the prison and without the inmates there would be no prison, they should be able to have a say in how their life is run. As of now, they have no way to defend themselves when accused of doing something wrong.

"Before anything gets done, we have to understand jail and understand justice," stated Harris. "I don't understand why when a man goes 5,000 miles and kills a village full of people, he's a hero. But, if a man kills his neighbor, he goes to jail. I see revenge, not justice. You keep working with the eye-for-an-eye policy and pretty soon there will be no more eyes."

GIRL SCOUTING

KAREN Kjelgaard, chosen for "Mountain Magic", a national Senior Girl Scout opportunity project, is from Mrs. Margaret Damon's MSS No. 13 and joins Dorice Robinson of "3 D Lingo" and Jane Stewart of "Music City, U.S.A." on the list of Skipper Mrs. Margaret Damon's nine girls receiving national or regional honors in the past three years.

Karen was the hostess room-made of troop member Twila Foster last summer in Washington, D.C. when Twila attended "Politics, Pot and Petticoats", so when her family arrived in the Bay Area, MSS No. 13 was her first choice.

COOKIES go on sale Friday, March 2 as Scout troops compete to win free camping weekends, special decorative patches, and credits toward equipment purchases.

Available on your front doorstep from your local Brownie, Junior, Cadette and Senior girl, prospective buyers are urged to invest in these delicious cookies for only $1.00 per box. All profits go toward either the troop of the girl you buy them from, and to the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council.

LAISONS will meet Tuesday, March 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Daly City War Memorial Community Center to discuss plans for Girl Scout week, according to Mrs. Margaret Connolly, Association Chairwoman.

Donna Gianfermo, Santija Jonas, Mary Lou Kaciur, Kathleen and Mary Magnani, Erin Mathews, Karen Medina, Judy Mudge, Eileen and Sarah Murray, Dee Dee O'Gorman, Lorrie Philips, Nadine Reich, Patricia Romer, Dana Simpson and Cecilia Wenquist and their fathers will attend the dinner.

Puppet Shows

At Libraries

Pacifica and Sanchez Libraries will be presenting a puppet show March 2.

Some of the puppet friends that will be seen are the animals of the Chinese New Years, a frog, a toad, a little boy who doesn't care, and two little Chinese boys.

The show can be seen at 3:30 at the Pacifica Library and 4:30 at the Sanchez Library. Children of all ages are invited.

NEW OFFICERS were elected for the High School UPY of the Broadmoor-Presbyterian Church, 377-87th St., Daly City. They are (from left) Charles Barnes, Secretary-Treasurer; Quentin Smith, moderator; and Pam Eichner, Vice-Moderator. Retiring officers are Val Cummins, Kay Pierce and Ray Orton. The advisors are Jack Redslab and Tom Spencer. This group meets Sunday evenings at 7:30 p.m. stressing the discussion of Christian principles and practices. A social time follows the meetings. Outings and projects are a part of the youth program. There is also a high school class that meets Sunday mornings at 10 a.m. with teachers Miss Dawn Klevesahl and San Chen. Rev. Herbert Tweedie is the pastor.

THIS SCENE from "The Importance of Being Earnest" (by Oscar Wilde) depicts the frigid atmosphere during an afternoon tea, in which the two young ladies portrayed in the Spindrift Players' production by Candi Rettig and Emilie Smyth, have discovered that they are engaged to the same man. Their verbal fight has been interrupted by the servant, played by Luther Spraker. Spindrift offering will be March 2-3 and 9-10 at Oddstad Park Playhouse, Pacifica.

Cancer Screening Tests in DC

"It only takes few seconds—it might save a whole lifetime" will be the slogan of the cancer screening program scheduled for March 3, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at Our Lady of Guadalupe Health Center, 75 Wellington Ave., Daly City.

MRS. JOHN PAPPAS is chairman of the Westlake Catholic Women's annual rummage sale. The sale will be March 9 and 10, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and will take place at Our Lady of Mercy parish hall, 1 Elmwood Drive, Daly City.

Linda Mar P-TA Selects Mrs. Tonna

Erma Tonna was presented with the P-TA's Honorary Service Award February 21 by Ken Matias, principal of the Linda Mar School, Pacifica.

Nicknamed "Boots," she was born in San Francisco, later moving to Lake County, attending Kelseyville schools and San Francisco City College.

She and her husband, Joseph Tonna, moved to Pacifica in 1964.

She is called the "camp director" by members of her family because of her organizational ability for the family outings, such as the yearly clam trip to Dillon's Beach.

She co-chaired the P-TA carnival one year with Mrs. Hilda Plate and has had charge of the carnival for the past two years.

She was active in the Little League and has worked with the Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls.

In Camp Fire, she has been a candy sales mother for two years. Served as sponsor of the Winona Keko Camp Fire Group for two of their four years. She served as chairman of the family potluck supper held by this group when they flew up from Bluebirds to Camp Fire Girls. She has assisted with transportation on tours, parties and hikes. She assisted with food buying for the first Day Camp at Sweetwood Ranch.

She has wrapped Christmas packages each year at Serramonte to add to the troop funds.

She has worked with the Sea Lions, and Park, Beach and Recreation.

She has spent hours in preparation for the many activities of the Sea Lions Swim Team, including inner squad and AAU meets, picnics and dinners, and also has volunteered to PB&R by assisting in program registration.

Sticking to A Prediction

ONCE MORE WITH FEELING — We said it before and we're saying it again. The scuttlebutt is that longtime Daly City Councilman Bud Lycett will hand over his mayor's gavel to Councilman McRobert Stewart in April. Lycett says he's tired and needs the rest. Little wonder he's pooped. The smiling Irishman's on just about every committee between Daly City and Timbuctoo (that's a little town up near Grass Valley, case you didn't know it).

AND SPEAKING OF IRISH — The D. C. Scavengers will have their St. Patrick Day feast this week at the corporation yard mess. For those readers who weren't in the military a "mess" is where you eat — not what you eat. We'll have you know those scavengers put on a pretty swill feed!

HOLD YOUR BREATH — Bids going out on that Westmoor Swimming pool. All the politicos are holding their breath hoping the construction bids will come in under Bill Chapman (Kirker-Chapman engineers) estimate of near $700,000. The last time the pool went out to bid it sank; that is, the bids came back almost double what architect Zavin Tatarian had thought they would.

FOLKS IN THE St. Francis Heights area getting uptight over those new traffic signals put in with TOPIC's funds. They don't want them. City council says it'll look, but doesn't think they will be taken out. The big hubbub is howcum they put them in where they did.

No one was notified, the angered citizens claim, and the signals are not as effective as the previously installed stop signs. Judging by past thinking and statements of the city staff the lights will stay. The staff has said in the past that stop signs are traffic hazards to pedestrians because they give a false sense of security.

WHAT THE RATIONALE behind the Local Agency Formation Commission's thinking on that mountain is can only be guessed at by this columnist.

It looks to us like LAFCO is buckling under conservationist pressure and will adopt its staff's recommendation to keep the mountain in the County for planning purposes.

After Crocker draws up plans, they will submit them — most likely — to the Brisbane Planning Commission which, in turn, will hand it up to the city council, which will pass it over to the county planners and, eventually, to the board of supervisors, which will find something wrong and send it — through channels — back to Crocker.

Oh, what a loverly way to thwart development of that glorious mountain! We'll see at 9 a.m. today how five persons can control a county's destiny.

I'M NOT EVEN going to attempt to interpret what Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees chairman Albert Collett meant when he responded to Deputy District Attorney Tom Casey's opinion that the Board had violated the Ralph M. Brown Act in discussing a classified employee last year by musings that the district frequently gets differing opinions from district attorneys from all over the state. One board critic and candidate for the JESD trusteeship described it as a "so what shrug."

MEANWHILE, OVER IN COLMA, that recall petition circulating against Councilman Raymond Ottoboni is gathering momentum. We understand from a source close to the subject, this, despite thinly-veiled threats from the longtime councilman that those who sign may be sued. On what grounds, isn't clear. Such little tidbits sprinkled about by politicians always interest us, as they must other great minds, when they point up how our democracy-in-action machinery works here in the county.

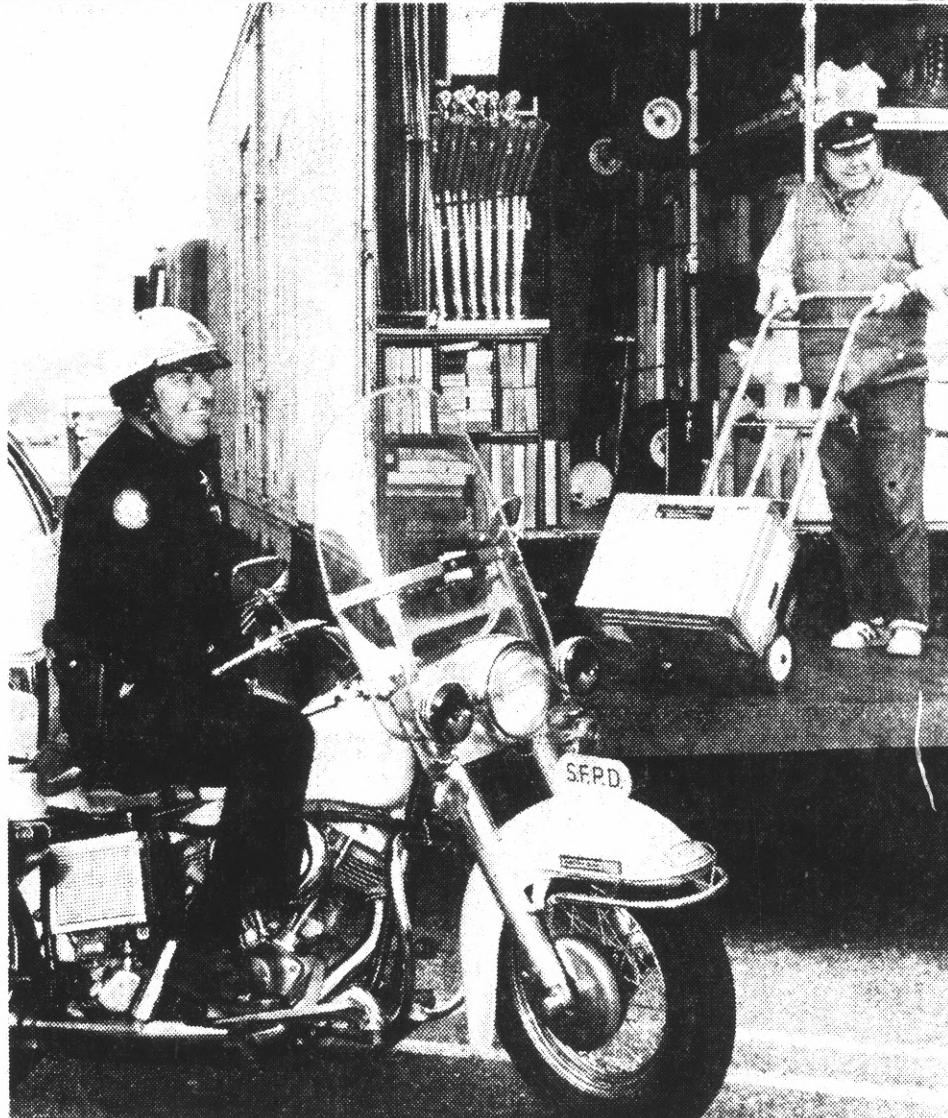

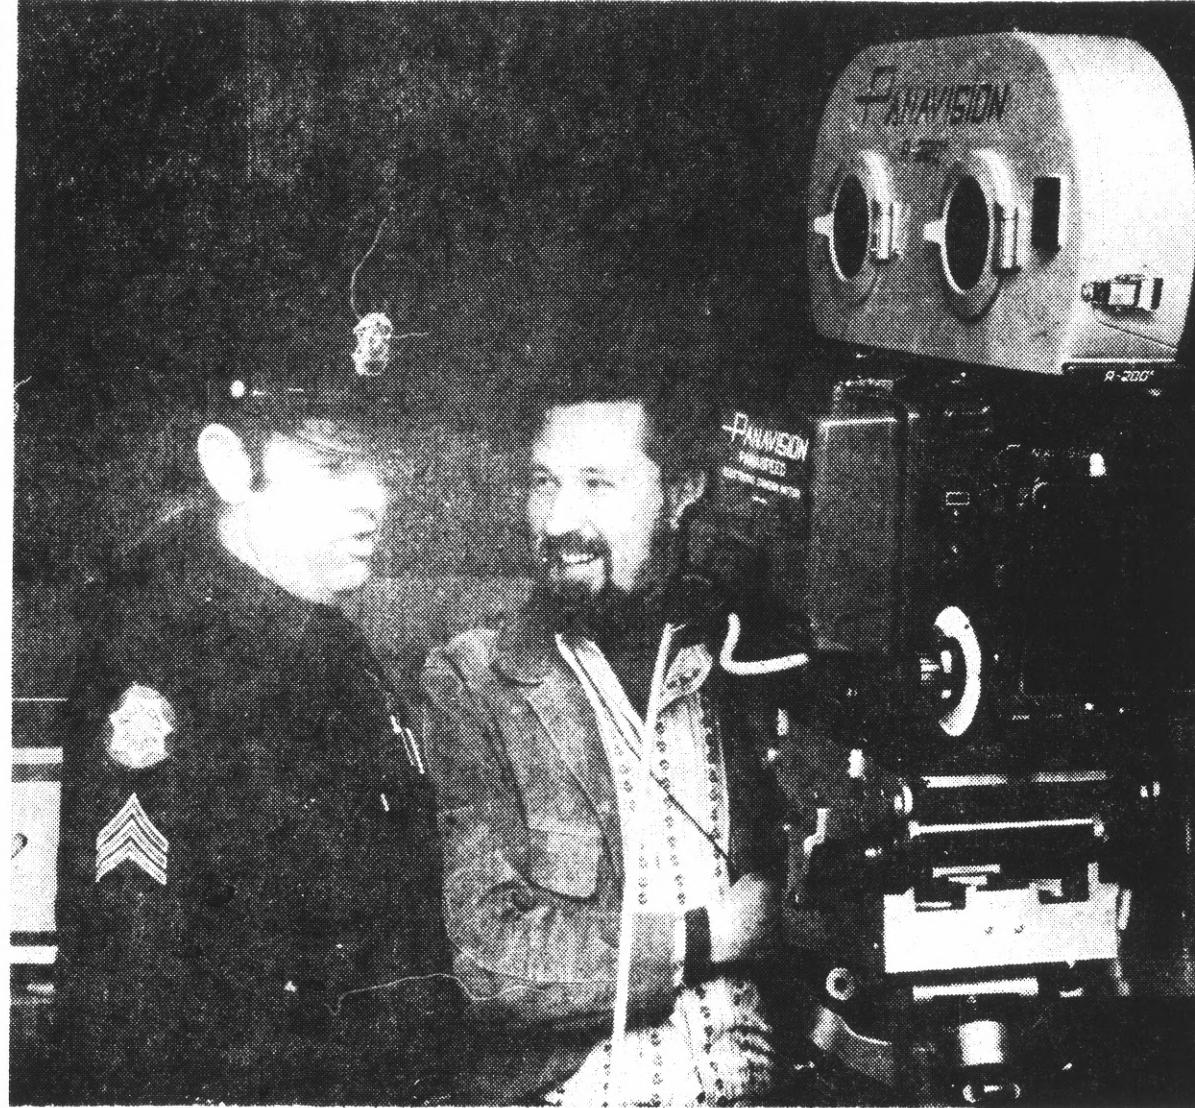

WATCH FOR BIG expansion project at Serramonte Shopping Center — New 70,000 square foot Mervyn Department store, plus another 50,000 square feet of smaller stores, east of the center. The North County now has the mostest in the way of shopping centers in all the county.

YOU SCRATCH my back and I'll... No — but seriously, folks, the D. C. council is now talking about regulations for massage parlors and licensing of massage technicians in the city. City Atty. Al Polonsky has a strong new law that even regulates what type of lights must be installed.

PLAYLAND COMES TO D.C. — San Francisco's Playland at the Beach is now at a Daly City beach. Well, not exactly. Here's what's happening. The Scavenger Company got this great chance to pick up some giant concrete slabs at the Playland site. So they trucked on down, and hauled on back some of the mammoth blocks, dumping them along the beach to help block wave action.

The Post gives its columnists a great deal of latitude, offering its readers the benefit of knowledgeable, varying opinion. Their opinions are not necessarily those of The Post which addresses itself to its readers only through clearly marked editorials.

Hindsight Should Be Treated With Care!

Hindsight is always omniscient, and its use should be treated with care.

Last week this column considered the Southeast Asia Resolution and its adoption by a Congress that was eager to work the will of Lyndon Johnson. Since the publication of that article some have inquired about the application of hindsight to a decision made in a vastly different context of experience and public opinion.

The criticism has validity so far as the ultimate adoption of the resolution is concerned. It does not apply, however, to a judgment that Congress failed to do a workmanlike job of inquiring into the subject then before it. The latter conclusion was the only one made or intended.

For while this or a similar resolution might have been adopted no matter what kind of hearings or debate had been held, it must be conceded that with suitable examination Congress might have avoided falling into the pit. America had a chance to remain clear of a land war in Asia, but the opportunity was thrown away by a Congress that didn't want to risk discovery of facts that might have delayed or modified an essentially pre-set judgment.

Last week's article discussed the speed with which Congressional deliberations were dispatched. Committee hearings were brief — an hour and 40 minutes in the Senate, and an hour and a half in the House. The combined and hurried vote was an overwhelming 504 to 2.

The public is entitled to the informed and independent judgment of its elected representatives, and Congress has a serious and imposing obligation to conduct meaningful discourse and hearings on important public topics.

The circumstances of August 1964, however, were such that Congress had an additional burden as to this issue. For it was on notice that important questions were in doubt, and did nothing to resolve these doubts. The danger signs were there, but Congress was blind to their importance.

(1) The entire proceedings were conducted in an aura of emergency. The immediate emergency, however, was over by the time Congress began to act. Over half of the vessels of the North Vietnamese Navy had been damaged or sunk, and an oil supply center had been blown up on orders from the commander-in-chief. This retaliation and its public announcement by the president precluded Congressional hearings.

(2) Congress failed to independently evaluate the circumstances surrounding the attacks on American destroyers in the Tonkin Gulf. Senator Wayne Morse had received a "tip off" phone call on the evening preceding Congressional hearings. The caller suggested that Morse inquire as to the mission and location of the destroyer Maddox. Nearby action by South Vietnamese vessels was never developed in the course of the hearings even though the secretary of defense had alluded to them in an earlier Senatorial briefing. The caller suggested that the North Vietnamese might have felt provoked to attack was not seriously discussed.

(3) Congress ignored the significance of giving the president warring powers in the absence of declaring war. Senator Morse made the Constitutional point: That under Article I, Section 8 of the Constitution wars cannot be declared in future to meet hypothetical situations yet to arise, but only in relation to situations existing at the time when the declaration of war is sought.

(4) Senator Gaylord Nelson offered an amendment that would have limited the American role to advisory, training, and support missions. Senator Fulbright, acting as President Johnson's courier, carried the message that while the amendment properly stated presidential intentions, it should not be offered. The reasons given were fear of delay, the risk of other amendments, and loss of Congressional momentum.

(5) The President was given more power than he said he wanted or needed. Senator Fulbright acted as floor manager for the administration and pacified querulous senators by assuring them that the president had no intention of using the very powers he asked Congress to give him, and that Johnson had no intention of sending a fighting army to South Vietnam.

Thumbnail Description

BASEBALL — If you're not familiar with recent Hall of Fame inductee Mickey Welch, following is a thumbnail description: Born in Brooklyn, lived until 1941, was 82 when he died. A 5-8, 160 pound right-handed pitcher, he won 311 games in 12 full seasons with Troy and New York of the National League, from 1880-91. His big year was 1885, when he won 17 straight and compiled an overall 44-11 record with an unofficial (complete records were not kept in those days) ERA of 1.66. Won 20 or more nine times, which included three 30 or more seasons along with that one year at 44. Stands, sixth in all-time rankings for complete games, eighth in innings pitched.

Still on the Hall of Fame, there has never been a pitcher selected strictly on the basis of relief pitching, but with the new era of specialization such a choice is inevitable, and if the first such selection isn't Hoyt Wilhelm, there is no justice.

On to the designated pinch-hitter rule, and the best argument against it we've heard thus far was recently offered by eastern sports columnist Bob Broeg, who wonders what would have happened to Babe Ruth — and the future of baseball — if the designated pinch-hitter rule was in force when the Bambino was a pitcher.

Another famous sports columnist, Melvin Durst, of Los Angeles, wonders what will happen to American League pitchers when they have to come to the plate for the first time all year in the World Series, when the DPH won't be in effect.

Ron Santo, Cub third baseman, came up with a great argument against it when he pointed out that ALL pitchers can now throw bean balls with impunity, knowing that no one will be able to retaliate against them. Bob Feller had come up with the same point as Santo a few weeks earlier, but people don't listen to old ball players any more.

ONE KEEPS hearing that Willie McCovey is the most feared slugger in baseball when he's healthy, and if certain statistics are analyzed, one can understand the claim, and also better understand why the Giants didn't do well last year. If you accept the premise that home runs and RBI's are the measure of fear, and that the best way to measure such statistics is by computing how often homers and RBI's come per time at bat, then McCovey measures up with and beyond some of the acknowledged slugging greats.

Compare McCovey with Babe Ruth (would you concede that he has been the greatest, historically?). Harmon Killebrew (who has for years stood second to Ruth in homers per time at bat), and the two great most publicly acknowledged contemporary sluggers, Hank Aaron and Willie Mays, and McCovey comes out right about in the middle of them.

Ruth hit home runs every 11.8 times at bat, drove in runs every 3.8 times at bat. For Killebrew, it's 13.2 and 4.9. Aaron comes in at 16.3 and 5.3. Mays measures up with 16.1 and 5.6. McCovey beats both Mays and Aaron, with 14.3 and 5.0.

In fairness to Aaron, we compiled these statistics only through 1971, since 1972 was such a miserable year for Mays, Killebrew and McCovey.

Several months ago we mentioned in a column that probably no pitcher would ever match the single season feat by St. Louis Brown hurler Ned Garver, who in 1951 accounted for 38.5 percent of his team's wins. So what happens is that Phillie Cy Young and Hickock award winner Steve Carlton wins 46 percent of Philadelphia's wins for 1972!

SUDDEN THOUGHT: It is said that the 336 dimples on a golf ball keep it airborne when the ball is given a backspin of 5000 revolutions a minute, twice as far as it would go if it were perfectly smooth.

If the new breed really wants to hypo baseball offense, why not put 336 — or more — dimples in baseballs.

And if they REALLY want to speed up the game, why not take those slow runners and . . . no, no, that not only wouldn't be practical, it would be painful.

BASKETBALL: Just a plug for Boston center Dave Cowens, who is an amazing 6-9 pivot man, hanging right in there, statistically, on rebounds with giants like Wilt Chamberlain, Nate Thurmond and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

And another sudden thought: wasn't Hank Luisetti, who popularized the one-handed shot, to basketball offense what Ruth was to baseball offense?

Odd Fact: Stanford coach Howie Dallmar, and former Stanford stars Don Burness and Bill Dowden, were all former Lowell High School (San Francisco) basketball captains and all played on the same 1942 Stanford team which won the NCAA championship: the last such title for the Indians.

BOXING: Those who say Joe Frazier either took a dive or was out of condition are ridiculous. No man planning on throwing a fight would have taken the punishment Frazier took. He would have stayed down after the first or second knockdown. And nobody out of condition COULD have gotten up after the first or second knockdown.

SUDDEN THOUGHT NO. 3: Anything worthwhile eventually becomes professionalized.

Local Notes: Terra Nova baseball coach Marty Coil has finally — after more than a year of fund raising — acquired his longed-for $950 pitching machine, a gizmo which throws fastballs (at 110 miles per hour), curves, screwballs, sliders and knuckleballs. He hopes it will not only sharpen his hitters, but save the arms of his prize pitchers, such as Steve Shirley, a junior who may have the best left wing in the NPL. Shirley, incidentally, takes pride in being the great-great grandson of Belle Starr (maiden name, Bell Shirley), the famous lady outlaw and undoubtedly the most notorious Italian law-breaker until Al Capone came along. Steve's father is Ron Shirley, who was a star hurler for San Francisco's Sacred Heart High and who put in several seasons in pro ball.

Perhaps the sleeper local baseball prospect of the year is USF infielder Bill Downing, a former Terra Nova who can run, field and hit with authority.

Things have been looking up for local football stars.

Regents Coronated, Mills Is Next

By JERRY LITRELL

They defy description, or even analysis.

Only one starter is over six feet, and he's just 6-2.

They seem to rattle under pressure, but they also have propensity for game-winning rallies.

They foul a lot, but seldom to the point of expelling more than one player, since they rely on mainly one sub off the bench.

But today the Serramonte Regents are heading towards a showdown with Mills in the semifinal of Region I of the Central Coast section basketball playoffs. And going into this game, they are heavy underdogs. So what's new???

"We were picked for sixth at the start of the year," said Regent Coach Ric Warne, dripping with the traditional post-game shower. "And I must confess I was hoping for an 8-6 record. The only people who really believed we could win were the kids themselves."

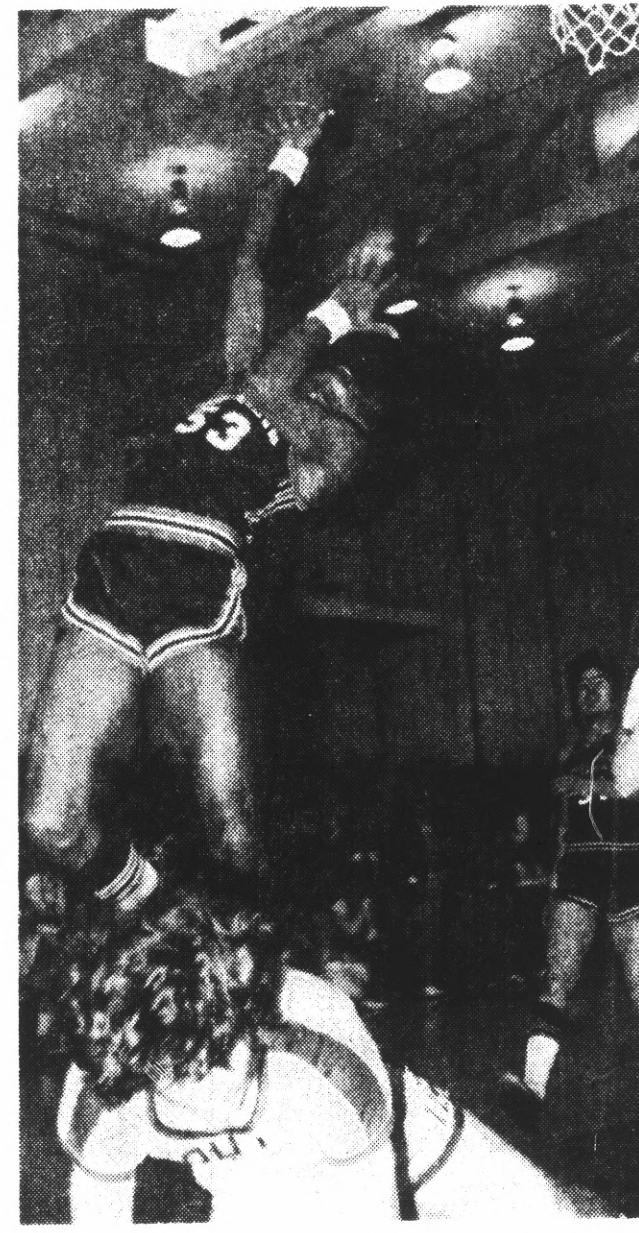

After losing twice to South San Francisco in North Peninsula League play already, prospects looked dim in Saturday's Shaughnessy playoff finale at Skyline Community College. Things got really bad after the Warriors jumped out to a 12-point lead before halftime.

But it was a soul-satisfying uphill climb the rest of the way as the Regents took a 59-55 victory to clinch the NPL berth.

Running in near impeccable fashion, the South City five appeared capable of grinding the Regents down early. Mason Larkin's ten quick points and four more fast break assists propelled SSF to a 17-6 lead in the first quarter.

Only poor free throw shooting kept the Warriors from breaking it open, as they missed seven times in the first quarter. They were to slip back into their doldrums again, missing 12 of 23 from the line.

Ever opportunists, Serramonte, behind Cornell Williams'

A Tumbling Act

WHAT GOES UP . . . South San Francisco's Al Dunn falls to the hardwoods while Cornell Williams of Serramonte (53) starts to tumble too, during Saturday night's North Peninsula League playoff won by Serramonte 59-55.

rebounding and Kirk Dove's shooting and passing, chipped away minute-by-minute until Pete Jurand's two free throws with six minutes left gave them a 43-42 lead, their first, and one which they never lost again.

Then stepped forward Ralph Sands, who just may be the best shooter on the team from long range, came off the bench and split 12 points with Dove to keep the Regents ahead by two points at best and no worse than three ties as the game ended.

Serramonte hit their final 12 free throws in a row, including all ten in the second half.

Dove, who scored 19 for game honors, hit two free throws with 23 seconds left, and two more with 11 seconds left to push the Regent lead to as much as was needed.

South City's high-scoring forwards, sophomore Al Dunn and senior Chris Vance, who had totaled 46 points two nights before, only managed 21, but the main faults with South City were its free throw shooting and the inability to simply block off the smaller Regents from the boards, a fault the frontliners must assume responsibility for.

Serramonte upended the Westmoor Rams for the third time this year, 63-59, Friday at Skyline.

In a tennis match on Friday line Community College.

The SSF quintet has already beaten Serramonte twice this year, but then lost two games (one each to El Camino and Westmoor) while Serramonte won undefeated the rest of the way.

Because of the tie in regulation play, there is no double elimination — tonight is it!

The Regents, who had been on a minor skid recently, played their best game of the season last night. Center Cornell Williams and forward Tim Gannon supplied the unexpected part of the heroics as the Regents had things their own way after a very tight first half.

Williams did a superior rebounding job among taller opponents, while Gannon supplied scoring that had been lacking up front for the Regents. Guard Kirk Dove seemed fully recovered from his leg injury, scoring 16 points and setting up numerous other buckets.

Injuries also played a factor for Westmoor. One could tell it wasn't to be the Rams' night when forward Gavin Long took a sharp elbow to the nose two minutes into the game.

It required a dam of cotton to stop the blood flow, but he scored 22 points despite practicing a lot of mouth breathing the rest of the way.

Starting forward Mike Lofton sat out most of the second quarter with an ankle sprain; sixth man Al Fortis left the game for good in the second half with a severe ankle twist; and guard Ren Johnson also had leg miseries after intermission.

Serramonte did an excellent job of putting the clamps to the Westmoor guards. In fact, except for Long and Lofton, the Serramonte defense was able to stop everybody in the second half.

Leading 32-30, the Regents came right out with 10 straight points to pull up by 12, and it was give-and-take most of the rest of the way.

The Rams made one final desperate lunge at the lead in the last 110 seconds when they closed from 12 back to within four with 17 seconds left. But Dove sank two free throws and Williams added a final layup to keep the game out of reach.

Weaver Is MVP Winner

Mid-Peninsula League basketball coaches probably felt no qualms about announcing the 1973 All-MPL team before the playoffs had even started. After all, there weren't many surprises.

The top vote-getter and Most Valuable Player was Mills High forward Don Weaver. Joining the 6-6 senior on the first team were Aragon center Tom Flavin

(6-8 senior), Mills center Tom Mackenzie (6-7 senior), San Mateo guard Howard Trotter (6-1 senior) and Hillsdale guard Rod Williams (6-3 junior).

Memories Haunt Mills, But Vikes Victorious

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE
Post Sports Writer

Mills High basketball coach Bill Smith wasn't enjoying the third quarter of Saturday night's MPL playoff final against San Mateo.

San Mateo's Bearcats were supposed to fall apart after falling way behind, but they had fought back from a 13-point second quarter deficit to trail by only three, 42-39.

Smith kept seeing scenes from last year's playoffs, when his seemingly invincible Vikings lost out to Hillsdale after going unbeaten for 12 regular season games.

Smith needn't have worried, San Mateo, using its personnel as well as possible and playing defense several degrees better than ever before, began to wilt on the court.

Mills started to beat San Mateo at its own game — running. Actually, the Bearcats never had a chance to run. But Mills, with clear command of the boards and a mastery of the outlet pass, did.

Don Weaver, Bruce DelFante and Kevin Harvey drew fouls and swished the cords from the line. Harvey's backcourt mate, Nick Pappageorge, popped a quick 10-footer to make it 50-41 at the third quarter buzzer.

From that point on San Mateo, which had three players in foul trouble and everybody getting very tired, was sunk. Mills began getting the fast break. The Vikings zipped through the back door much more easily than before. San Mateo turned cold from the floor, and Weaver shut the Bearcats off the boards. Mills pulled away to a 72-49 final.

But San Mateo, the second-place team in the MPL, had nothing to be ashamed of.

First-year coach Reuben Miller, whose team was inconsistent at times during the season, had the Bearcats playing at top efficiency in their biggest game.

But top efficiency wasn't enough.

Mills started off in awesome fashion. The Vikings, restored to their flashy best after a so-so game against Aragon the night before, sent the huge forms crashing around the gym seemingly oblivious of the stunned Cats.

While San Mateo worried ineffectively at the edge of an impenetrable Mills defense, the Vikings' 6-6 Weaver put some moves on and dropped in four baskets while 6-7 center Tom MacKenzie hit two and Mills led at the quarter, 18-8.

Early in the second quarter Mills breezed to a 26-13 bulge. But then the Vikings went to the bench for sub guards and San Mateo surprised one and all by putting excellent defensive pressure on the newcomers.

Bearcats Louis Robinson and Bruce Meyer forced a change in Mills' tempo. Robinson and forward Ryon Paton started muscling around for jump shots, and reserve center Jerry Wilkenson added a tip and some free throws. The Cats pulled to within five, 34-29, at half.

San Mateo kept at it five afterward, drawing within three that one time to worry Smith, before Mills blew the cover off.

Miller was unable to put his two big men, 6-6 Anthony Williams and 6-8 Wilkenson in at the same time, since the chances of their both getting into foul trouble were too great. As a result Mills' 6-6, 6-6, 6-7 front line dragged more and more rebounds off as the game progressed.

Williams did manage to block shots on the taller MacKenzie twice, sending one attempt flying back into the San Mateo band, but the Cats couldn't get the ball to him on the low post on offense, and he was surrounded by a trio of big persons when they could.

Mills has a rest now until Thursday night, when the Vikings meet NPL Champ Serramonte at College of San Mateo. If Mills wins that game, the Vikings come back to CSM the next night to play the Catholic League champ, which will have had three days rest to Mills' none.

But to Smith, it doesn't matter. He can forget about last year's nightmare now. Lightning can't strike twice. Mills is champ — officially and overwhelmingly.

Mechanical Men? Not Mills' Vikes

By DICK DRAPER
Post Sports Writer

They don't slip unnoticed into telephone booths to don red-and-blue tights before each game.

They're not NBA players in disguise.

They're not fiendish inventions of Dr. Strangemith molded into transistorized wizards programmed to play textbook basketball's virtues.

No, the Mills High team is flesh and blood, but they're sometimes a little too inhuman for Mid-Peninsula League quintets' sake.

What the Vikings are are a group of mature, knowledgeable, never-get-rattled, serious-minded teen-agers with but one goal in mind: to be the best high school basketball team in the Central Coast Section.

"We've played together so long we never get nervous," commented forward DelFante, who scored 16 points and grabbed six rebounds against the Bearcats. "We play basketball every day after school and we're devoted to the game, the MPL championship.

"We feel comfortable out there because we have the talent and we know we can do it," continued DelFante, who scored 16 points and grabbed six rebounds against the Bearcats. "We play basketball every day after school and we're devoted to the game, the MPL championship.

They also hold a special place in their hearts for guard Nick Pappageorge, the lone junior on the squad, and outside man Kevin Harvey.

"Those two guards made a big change in our game from last year with their passing," said DelFante. "They've done a fine job in picking up the slack for us."

"Nick runs the team as well as anyone could," said forward Don Weaver, named the MPL's most valuable player by the coaches, "and he and Kevin are really great."

"I hope to go all the way to Stanford and be No. 1 in the country," said Pappageorge, who zipped in 12 points, had seven assists and three steals, and who hinted at the Vikings' virtues.

"We've played together a couple of years and all the players are more or less learning the plays and trying to get it to the big guys. We count on them a lot. I don't really think about scoring — just the passes."

Mills showed its mettle against the Bearcats after allowing Aragon a little too much breathing room the night before. "We're saving something for tonight — we couldn't go all out," said center Tom MacKenzie, whose club was forced to go all out to stave off a Bearcat rush at Hillsdale.

San Mateo trailed by 13, but began pecking away. Everybody seemed worried . . . except the Vikings.

"Coach (Bill) Smith told us to just settle down, don't blow our cool, and play our kind of ball," said the 6-6 MacKenzie, another of the poised Viking seniors.

Although Serra High lost last night to Riordan in the WCAL playoffs, the Padres are still in the running — and the Vikings are still confident they can win, providing Serramonte falls Thursday in the CCS semifinal at CSM.

"Against Serra's slow-down offense, we'll just play a real tough defense," said MacKenzie, "and not let them get a good shot. We'll have to force them outside."

Playoff Time in D.C. Rec Cage Leagues

For some teams, it is playoff time while other teams are battling for future playoff spots in the Daly City Boys Basketball Leagues. After seven weeks a few of the leagues are now starting playoffs while other leagues will continue to run a couple more weeks. The boys in these leagues have worked hard throughout the season and now many of them are within reaching distance of their goal and that is a league championship. Here are the results of last week's games:

Too Many Problems

SSF Sets Special Sessions

Faced with a growing number of unresolved problems, South San Francisco city councilmen have voted to start holding study sessions every Wednesday night before the regular semi-monthly council meetings.

Regular council meetings, held the first and third Mondays of each month, have been stretching late into the night with charges and counter-charges over various issues.

The first such study session has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. February 28, and will be open to the public. While the agenda was not decided, it will undoubtedly include some of these highly controversial problems:

Development Wins Okay In Pacifica

A new plan for the 64-unit Sea Garden apartment project — slated for a sea cliff off of Palmetto Avenue near Daly City — has been approved by the Pacifica Planning Commission.

The proposal now goes back to the City Council, which had rejected a previous plan because it included a long row of carports along Palmetto Avenue. One councilman had also attacked it as being "more of the same" architecturally. Neighbors living above it also criticized plan as "ugly."

The new proposal has 18 conditions attached to it, including one providing that "architecture of project shall be of a unique character and cohesive style for all structures."

Under the new plan, the parking will be located between the units, and will consist of a recreation building located between two apartment buildings, with a swimming pool and tennis court. It will also provide public access to the beach.

When and if the council approves the project it must then go to the new Coastal Commission.

Planners rejected an appeal by Webb Witmer, in behalf of his aunt, retired school principal Alice Ballard, to rezone a 1 1/2-acre site on the Linda Mar Beach from agricultural to commercial recreation zoning. He pleaded that the rezoning was necessary to recoup the high taxes Mrs. Ballard has been paying on a piece of land that is now unusable for what it is zoned for. It is assessed at $62,000, yet she cannot sell it to the city, county, or the State Division of Highways at this time.

In addition, under present conditions, she cannot sell it to any private developer.

Planner Jim Miller told the commissioners that the three agencies all have plans for purchase of the site, and that rezoning would raise the price to these governmental agencies.

Commissioners agreed to revise Phase I of the Pacifica Housing Element after hearing protests from the audience that the proposed element should not have identified by name the three neighborhoods showing deteriorated housing — Sharp Park, Pacifica Manor and Pacifica Highlands. They noted that the labeling was done on the strength of the 1968 housing survey done for the current general plan, and that a new housing survey was on its way.

A request for a use permit for a 7-Eleven food store on Crespi Drive and Roberts Road was rejected, in spite of the recommendation of the planning staff.

The commissioners acknowledged that the store would be an asset to the residents of the new Oceanview Senior Citizens Inn — but noted some disadvantages, including annoyances to the senior citizens because of the late hours of the store, the traffic attracted and the children congregating.

Commissioners held over a request for a permit for site development for a small office complex in the new shopping center at Oddstad and Terra Nova boulevards, charging that architects Iniguez and Stoenkopf, who were making the applications, had presented an uninspired design.

The building would hold the Walker and Lee real estate office, Eureka Savings and an insurance company. Commissioners complained about the stucco facing, urging that some more decorative facing be used, such as masonry or wood. They noted that the building would be situated on a corner in the midst of Pacifica's largest residential neighborhood, thus its appearance would be critical.

cil. He expressed the hope that the procedure would settle "once and for all" the criticism the claims have received from councilmen Patrick Ahern and William Borba.

Mammini also had City Attorney John Nocan read the contract with VTN which the council had unanimously approved last June.

The contract specified that the VTN project manager would be the director of public works, city engineer, director of the Department of Ecological Development and the director of parks and recreation, at a total fee not to exceed $31,140 per year.

The contract is for one year but the city could cancel it on a 30-day notice.

Ryan Urges Boost In Flood Insurance

Declaring that State and Federal policy regarding disaster insurance is lagging "far behind where it ultimately must go," U.S. Congressman Leo J. Ryan (D-11th) approved a legislative plan to increase the National Flood Insurance Program.

The Resolution, which Ryan approved last week, amended section 1319 of the Housing and Urban Development Act by increasing the Federal limitation of flood insurance from $2.5 billion to $4 billion.

In a letter to Millbrae Mayor Bernard Esser, Ryan also suggested that the matter of flood insurance be taken up by the League of California Cities.

"If we can get this far with the no-fault insurance concept," Ryan told Mayor Esser, "there is no reason why we cannot do the same with disaster insurance."

The federal increase, which has now passed the House and Senate, has the approval of the Office of Management and Budget, and the Administration. Ryan noted. The legislation was deemed necessary in view of the fact that the $2.5 billion limit was imminent when the bill was brought to the House floor for action.

Ryan said the approval of the legislation will not necessarily improve the plight of persons who have filed claims and had them denied.

"This is still a problem that must be worked out between insurance companies, and state and federal agencies," Ryan said.

Ryan told Esser he would continue to look for other opportunities to "do more to assist your city and to bring meat prices will increase into the spring, but later told a press gathering that he expected a decline in retail meat levels by the end of the year.

"We have the safest, purest and most economical food supply in the world — ever in the history of America," Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz told a group of Northern California food editors in San Francisco recently.

He made his comments at a "coffee klatch," set up by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's information office, and sponsored by the California Beef Council.

"People have the idea that food is a conspiracy," Butz told the editors. "We must dispel the idea that the consumer is getting rooked." He noted in particular what he called the sensationalized danger of food additives. "What we seek is an optimum risk-benefit ratio for our food," said the secretary.

Butz allowed that food and meat prices will increase into the spring, but later told a press gathering that he expected a decline in retail meat levels by the end of the year.

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-Daly City) today announced that he is co-authoring major legislation that would abolish the property tax for senior citizens over 62 years of age making less than $7,500.

The main thrust of the legislation, introduced by Assemblyman Bob Wilson (D-La Mesa), is to provide a substantial increase in the property tax relief provided under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Act.

"Most older people want to and do own their own homes, but after working all those years to fulfill their dreams, the aged are now losing their homes because of their fixed incomes, inflation, high cost of home maintenance and rising property taxes," Papan said. "Property tax exemption is the only equitable way we can help the senior citizens. A disproportionate amount of their limited income is used for property taxes, yet they do not gain proportionate benefits."

In San Diego County 50-plus percent of the property tax bill goes to support local schools.

"Low income senior citizens improvements in the act proposed by this bill, including a homestead, and increasing the gross income limitation."

Assemblyman Papan announced that under the new proposal, a senior citizen would be granted relief on a sliding scale in the following amounts:

"The Tiger Got Hungry"
And What Happened

In 1941, 87 pilots and 165 ground personnel from the U.S. Army, Navy and Marine Air Corps volunteered to go to China under General Claire L. Chennault and become a patched-together part of the patched-together Chinese Air Force. They flew patched-together P-40 fighters with ferocious mouths painted on their air scoops. After little training, and though always short of food and supplies, they became world famous in less than a year of fighting over China and Burma as the Flying Tigers. After the Flying Tigers disbanded, many of the pilots went into China National Aviation Corp., flying supplies over the Hump — the Himalayas — from India to China. In old, unarmed, radio-less planes, harassed by fighters over some of the earth's ruggedest terrain, night and day and in any weather, they flew a trickle of supplies — the only trickle — into starving China. Later, some of them formed the Flying Tiger Line, a small commercial airline in this country, and things began to look up. Then Bob Prescott, an ace under Chennault and founder of the airline, said, "We're always eating and drinking somewhere. Why don't we spend our money in our own place?" Dick Rossi and Bill Bartling, also Flying Tiger aces, said "Fine." Len Kimball, Ed Pinke, Bob Conrath, Starr Thompson, Herb Wall, Jack Rourke, Jack Martin, Bob Blank, and Jack Morris, who flew for, worked for, or talked a lot about the Tigers — said "Fine," too. Each put in some money. The name of the place was almost too obvious. It was the Hungry Tiger. Now, if there was one thing they knew how to do, it was fly things from somewhere. They started by flying in Maine lobsters. Today, the Hungry Tiger feasts well at last on steaks. Maine lobster, Alaskan King crab, Boston Schrod, Gulf shrimp, Cherry stone and Ipswich clams, Blue Point oysters, Cape Cod Scallops, Hungry Tiger?

Vince's Restaurant
For A Sunday Feast

The menu at Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant is not expensively priced yet it has sufficient variety to suit the diner. Among the superlative Italian selection prepared with finesse by master chefs are Chicken Cacciatore, Veal Parmigiana, Pot Roast and Baked Lasagne. Where as the seafood choices are endless — with casserole dishes holding an appetizing lead with Crab au Gratin, Lobster Newburg and Combination Creole with Rice. A Sunday Special is Roast Chicken and Polenta. Yes, there are luncheon specials served Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Which accounts for the big mid-day business at this popular San Mateo restaurant operated-owned by a hard-working family of Licatas. You'll see prominent people from all over the Peninsula having lunch, sipping cocktails, and relaxing over an evening meal. For fresh seafood for the home table, visit their next-door Fish Depot . . . The impressive dining rooms and cocktail lounge at Scotty Campbell's are delighting diners who flock to this Redwood City restaurant for prime ribs of beef (the way you like it), steaks, sea foods, and its many specialties. It's overflowing with as many tourists as Peninsula reports host-owners Mary Lou and Theresa, petite sisters whose dimpled smiles would melt an indestructible iceberg.

Omelette House In Full Swing

The spring-like weather brought the crowds out over the weekend to the Omelette House on Peninsula Avenue. Manager Cliff Replique says the new outdoor patio was in full swing on Saturday and Sunday. Besides omelettes, wine and good conversation, live entertainment will be another Saturday and Sunday attraction (from 12 noon to 3 p.m.). Presenting the music will be Tenderfoot, a versatile trio new to these parts . . . Veal Scallopini Toscana is considered one of many house specialties at the Leaning Tower, in South San Francisco. Although the menu favors a wide choice of Italian dishes, steaks and other broiler items are served. Joe Joe Ercoli, co-owner and resident philosopher, also speaks highly of his chef's cannelloni. So do his patrons . . . The Chicken Unlimited owner, Ed Chalkagian, is a cheerful, fun-lovin' gent who truly enjoys the restaurant business. He revels in excitement, which, in his mind, means anything new — ideas, concepts, promotions, etc. — in the food industry. Ed recently returned from a business trip to the East, where he picked up a few ideas. He's not telling what they are, but does mention that it's going to be a "giveaway" year. Watch Bright Lights for further news on this.

Night Racing And A Free Chevy At Bay Meadows

The remainder of the current Harness Racing meet at Bay Meadows in San Mateo is all night racing, with post time, Tuesday through Saturday, being 7:45 p.m. Why not plan dinner or a cocktail party before the races. Saturday evening, March 3, is the final night of this year's meet, and it will also be the date for the "Fan Appreciation Day Drawing." This drawing is a special tribute to the many racing fans who have made the 1973 Harness Race Season a rousing success, even with day-after-day of rainy weather. On the final night of the meet, some lucky fan will hold a ticket for a 1973 Chevrolet, compliments of Dr. William J. Ward, president and general manager of the California Horse Racing Association. Tickets for the Bay Meadows drawing, which will be held prior to the 7th race, March 3, are now available at the Admission Gate . . . Don't miss the refurbishing look at the Villa Coffee House which has reopened for 24-hour service. Incidentally, it's "nine to one" you'll be satisfied when selecting the Villa Hotel as your banquet or meeting headquarters. For cocktails and relaxation, visit the Villa Lounge, where the Charlie Blackwell Trio takes over the bandstand from 9 p.m. for dancing.

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD — Richard Goeglein is Chairman of the Board in the operation of Hungry Tiger restaurants. Much of the success of Hungry Tiger Inc., a Los Angeles-based restaurant chain, can be attributed to Goeglein, whose depth background in the restaurant and food industry is nationally known.

Whiskey Hill's Wed. Night Dance Contest

A dance contest is featured every Wednesday night at Whiskey Hill, reports Dick Volonte, manager of this jumpin' downtown Burlingame club. The winner always walks away with a cash prize. If you like parties, here's some news that will interest you: Dick and owner Pete Brallier are already planning a party honoring St. Patrick's Day, which will probably be scheduled for a Wednesday or Thursday evening . . . A new "Happy Hour" policy made its debut in the Golden Rooster Lounge of Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco. 60 cent cocktails are now the liquid enticements here from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Friday. A nightly entertainment enticement is the Garfin Gathering . . . Through hard work and the ability to make great pizza, Frank "Toto" Spadarella has managed to build a mini restaurant empire. A prime example is the new Toto's Pizza and Italian restaurant in San Bruno. Pizza reigns supreme, with many sizes and varieties available. Lunch, dinner and pizza to go. If you're lucky, you may see "Toto" behind the counter tossing a pizza — and it's truly a work of art . . . Film star Michael Caine, in San Francisco to promote his new film, "Sleuth," graciously signed autographs for admiring fans between bites of Peach-Beef Wellington in the luxurious Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery.

Ben Jonson Restaurant

Has Versatile Menu

Whatever the celebrating occasion, don't forget the Ben Jonson restaurant in San Francisco's Cannery. It's an ideal spot for cocktails, luncheon or dinner. The cocktail lounge is attractive and comfortable; the food is superb, with a versatile menu. Open seven days a week. Odds are, once you've tried the Ben Jonson, you'll be back again and again . . . Don Kelly is the amiable entertainer providing organ music Wednesday through Sunday at Nick Gust's fabulous Moonraker restaurant, located at Rockaway Beach in Pacifica. Don, who has a remarkably large repertoire of old and new tunes, says the most asked for song is "Ebb Tide," since this dining spot is situated on a picturesque stretch of beach, looking out over a foaming Pacific ocean . . . Nick's restaurant and lounge, another Nick Gust success, is now featuring the Steve Romano Combo, Wednesday through Sunday, for listening and dancing. A great way to enjoy a little fun and relaxation is to trek over to this land of ocean breezes and illuminated splendor. A pre-dinner drive along the ocean's rim on scenic Highway One will be very rewarding . . .

Antonino's Popular Hayward Spot

Peninsulans looking for a new restaurant "discovery" should trek over to Hayward. On Hesperian Boulevard near Southland Shopping Center is Antonino's, a jewel of a restaurant specializing in Italian dishes and seafood. Owner Tony Carilli needs no introduction to those who use to frequent his Tony's restaurant in Golden Gate Produce Terminal, South San Francisco. The food here is superb—with prices most reasonable. Chef Chuck Baaba is the culinary genius. If you're in the area during the early part of the day, drop in for lunch, which is served Mondays through Fridays . . . Planning a meeting? Let Remy and Julio Donati or Nick Sharra of the New Southern Restaurant help you with your arrangements. Their South San Francisco restaurant affords two private banquet rooms which are ideal for business luncheons, dinner parties, and special celebrations . . . The winter banquet season is setting a record pace at the Iron Gate in Belmont, where Host Al Malatesta tells us that reservations for luncheon and dinner parties are running far ahead of last year. The Iron Gate's popularity is well deserved. They have one of the most beautiful banquet rooms on the Peninsula, with plush accommodations for parties to 100, and the food is great. Prices, happily, are very modest indeed. Talk to Al for details and reservations.

Fisherman Restaurant Phenomenal Success

Seven hundred to a thousand meals per day? Twelve hundred meals on New Year's Eve? Sounds fantastic, but it's all in a day's work at the Fisherman, the fabulous $700,000 seafood restaurant located on Patane Point, a spit of land extending into the Bay just south of San Francisco International Airport (1492 Old Bayshore Highway in Burlingame, to be exact). Since the day the Fisherman opened its doors in August, it has attracted literally thousands of diners from all over the Bay Area. What accounts for this phenomenal success story?

It is the opinion of Alfredo Scardina, maitre d' and one of the restaurant's trio of owners, that the Fisherman fills a need that no other restaurant on the Peninsula fills.

Another of the owners, Richard Patane, a 28-year-old former banking wizard who put together the financing for the Fisherman, has another theory. "We have the experience behind us that promises not only excellent food but fine service and splendid decor."

The third owner, Salvatore Patane (known as Sam to his friends, and the father of Richard), merely shrugs at the question and hurries back to the kitchen, which he oversees on a daily basis.

"There goes the real success of this restaurant," says Richard Patane, indicating his father with a nod of his head. "For 40 years my dad has been in the business cooking. He helped to establish the original Paoli's, and he's been at it ever since. He's dedicated his life to food preparation, and now he's dedicated his life to the success of this restaurant."

Richard spends a lot of his time in the kitchen right along with his dad. Sometimes, when business is so good, he winds up the evening washing dishes, or helping to clean up the kitchen. They all pitch in and help one another.

Diners flock to this restaurant so steadily that oftentimes on the weekends there may be a slight wait for a table. "We don't like to have people wait," explains Richard, "but there isn't much you can do about it. We have a gorgeous view of the Bay, and oftentimes lovers or couples will sit and drink in the scenery as they wine and dine. That's the customers' privilege. So all I can do is ask our patrons to be tolerant and patient. We keep the waiting period to an absolute minimum."

The menu at the Fisherman is an extensive one, encompassing not only myriad seafood specialties but a host of meat dishes. There is hardly an appetite imaginable that couldn't be satisfied by the Fisherman.

Wayne Newton Now Lewis Next At Harrah's

Jerry Lewis, a man of many talents (he writes, directs, produces, teaches, as well as performs), takes over the stage of the South Shore Room at Harrah's Tahoe the Friday, Saturday, and Sunday weekend of March 2, 3, and 4. Appearing with Lewis is Sonny King, Monday through Thursday buffets, featuring prime rib and five other entrees, with dancing to Brian Farnon's Trio, continue from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. in the South Shore Room. In the Stateline Cabaret are The Checkmates Ltd., Leland Four, and Judy Bell . . . The Family Plan Music Company, three men with an extensive musical background, currently entertain in the Terrace Lounge at Cal-Neva Lodge, North Lake Tahoe. Paul Bryant, organist in the group, has appeared in nightclubs throughout the U.S. and has numerous recordings to his credit. The other two members of the new group which is delighting audiences at Cal-Neva Lodge are Tom Mangus on drums and Jay Cozad on guitar . . . Autograph hunters are having a field day at the Riviera. Jack Klugman, who co-stars with Tony Randall in TV's version of "The Odd Couple," checked into the Las Vegas hotel and made immediate reservations for the Shelly Greene show.

Papas Relleno Famed Montara Beach Treat

South American specialties of the house are what attract most diners to Torres Beach restaurant, a place of business owned and operated by Frank and Fannie Torres in Montara, near Half Moon Bay. People have been known to come from as far away as the Bahamas to try the Papas Relleno, or one of the other south-of-the-border delicacies which have made Frank and Fannie famous worldover . . . Everyone knows a great place to enjoy an afternoon or evening for cocktails, luncheon or dinner is San Francisco's Iron Horse restaurant, located in Maiden Lane, just off Kearny. It's a convenient spot when taking in the nearby theaters, shopping, or in the City on business. There's the charm and atmosphere of New Orleans and the hospitality of old San Francisco. There are numerous gourmet specialties, and Roger Bertola is the chef de cuisine with the magic touch. Banquet rooms are available for special entertaining, sales meetings and receptions. Owner Sam Marconi will help you make any special arrangements for your group. A major tourist attraction, the Iron Horse is also a favorite meeting place of celebrities from every field of endeavor.

Prime Rib Cut To Order Table-Side

Prime Rib Inn in Palo Alto caters to big eaters and dieters alike with a variety of Prime rib dinners to suit any appetite—or pocketbook. "M'Lady's Cut" is perfect for light eaters, while the extra-thick "M'Lord's Cut" will satisfy the most gargantuan appetite. And to make sure you always get the exact cut you want, the prime ribs are cut to order at the table from glistening silver carts . . . Understandable why the Down Under restaurant got its name: Australian food and atmosphere predominates. But there's more to the story. The Down Under is actually below street level. You walk down carpeted stairs, enter the plush dining room and bar and are escorted to the real must. That would be the "make it yourself" salad bar, where you whip up your favorite salad from a wide selection of goodies and dressings. Down Under rates a double-take . . . Almost every dish in the lexicon of French cooking is available on the menu at L'Auberge: Poulet saute Jerusalem, Rex Sole Meuniere, Tournedos a la Held. But if you can't find a dish you particularly like on the menu but have tasted it elsewhere or in Europe, ask the chef. Master chef and partner George Bollag says that if the ingredients are in the kitchen, you shall have your dish, prepared exactly as you like it.

1974 Target

Mateo Bus System

Appears Certain

It appears that San Mateo will have a tax subsidized bus system within the next few months. Preliminary estimates indicate it will be off and running by June, 1974.

Unavoidable delays involve processing of federal and state matching funds, plus filing an order for custom-made buses which will take several months to produce.

Last week's public hearing was adjourned to March 5 at which time the council will make a final decision. Mayor John J. Murray announced.

A turnout of nearly 100 residents, predominantly senior citizens, repeatedly praised and urged the council to expedite the new system.

At the same time, two homeowners' organization representatives urged the proposal be put to the taxpayer on a city-wide ballot measure. A majority of the council present indicated that isn't likely.

And a spokesman for the Guion Bus Company, the present two-line system operator for San Mateo, offered a three-month trial period for the proposed seven-line system to find out how serviceable it will be.

Besides individual speakers, major proponents of the system included the David D. Bohannon organization, developers of Hillsdale Shopping Center, the San Mateo-Burlingame Board of Realtors, and the League of Women Voters.

Murray, long an advocate of the new municipal bus system, tangled with President Don C. Vowel of the South San Mateo Homeowners' Association. He sought to discredit Vowel who, as chairman of the former San Mateo Housing and Transportation Committee, was not supported by his colleagues in his minority report dissenting with the need for a tax-subsidized system and urging a city-wide ballot measure.

Vowel said, in effect, that the committee had been stacked to bring in a verdict of support for a bus system.

Urging a ballot measure was attorney William F. Murphy, representing the Parrot Park Homeowners' Association. One of his key arguments was that, win or lose, a ballot measure would give the council a true measure of public opinion. He said an analysis of precinct returns would show where residents supported and needed a bus system.

He also questioned the statistical outline in the bus study report, asserting that federal and state funding cannot be depended on.

City Manager Don Mueller agreed but added that there was sufficient indication of approval of financing from the federal government and the state Metropolitan Transportation Commission to assure the city.

In the case of the federal revenue-sharing program, at least five years' contribution can be expected. Beyond that, sources of funding are not known, it was said.

A number of speakers cited service gaps in the proposed seven-bus system routing. They were assured that it was subject to change to meet demonstrated need.

Among major group speakers urging support were Willie Williams, president of the Shoreline New-Parkside Homeowners' Association, who pointed to the "isolated" position of the district, a major reason for needing bus service.

Others cited the need for bus transportation during the weekend, not now included in the plan.

The United San Mateo Homeowners' Association has adopted a neutral position on the issue.

Murphy cited areas not served by the proposal including San Mateo Park, and the north and south areas of the city, the lack of service to night CSM adult school classes, plus lack of access to weekend and holidays. He also questioned costs as outlined in the city's study.

He warned unless contributing funds are permanently backed down, the city might well face tax subsidizing of a bus system operational costs beyond $150,000 in years to come.

The city is required to buy buses and would put a contract out to bid for its operation, it was explained.

A witness told the officer that he was stopped in his car at the crossing when he noticed a set of headlights approaching along the tracks from the south. Then the train passed going the opposite direction and there was a crash, the witness related.

Patrolman J.D. Jones said in his report that Fort drove his car onto the tracks at an unknown location and was proceeding north along the tracks when the auto was hit by the southbound freight train at 1:15 a.m.

A witness told the officer that he was stopped in his car at the crossing when he noticed a set of headlights approaching along the tracks from the south. Then the train passed going the opposite direction and there was a crash, the witness related.

Fort was taken to Cowell Health Center at Stanford University for treatment of his broken ankle and for a bruise of the left arm.

Jones is recommending in his report that Fort be charged with drunken driving on private property.

A Variety of Ways to Enjoy Asparagus Season

Perhaps one reason why asparagus is such a popular vegetable is that it is around for too short a season. It comes and goes, and asparagus lovers never get their fill.

Asparagus enjoyment begins in the market where it's important to know what you are doing. Look for slender stalks with a large amount of green, for it's the green part that is tender and delicate. Shop where they keep the asparagus cold and humid but never where they soak the ends in water. Once you get the asparagus home, store it again in a cold and humid atmosphere and use it as quickly as possible.

Given here are four recipes for serving fresh asparagus, all developed in the Best Foods kitchen.

Fresh Asparagus Pie

1 baked 9-inch pastry shell
3 tablespoons margarine
1 tablespoon corn starch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
1/4 cup mayonnaise

2 cups diced cooked ham
1 pound hot cooked asparagus
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Melt margarine in 2-quart saucepan over medium heat. Stir in corn starch, 1/4 teaspoon salt and pepper. Remove from heat. Gradually stir in milk, mixing until smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce comes to a boil and boils one minute. Stir small amount of corn starch mixture into mayonnaise, then stir into mixture in saucepan. Add ham; cook over low heat about 5 minutes or until ham is heated. Cut asparagus spears into halves or thirds, toss with lemon juice and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Line pastry shell with half the asparagus. Cover with half the ham mixture. Repeat with remaining asparagus and ham mixture. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Broil about 3 inches from heat source, 2 to 3 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

Asparagus Appetizer Salad
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash white pepper
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 pound asparagus, cooked, drained and chilled
Stir together mayonnaise, salt, pepper, lemon rind and juice. Hot cooked fresh asparagus.

Stir together mayonnaise, milk, salt and pepper in saucepan. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly, until heated, about three minutes.

Mock Hollandaise Sauce For Asparagus

1/4 cup real mayonnaise
1/3 cup milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash white pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 cup heavy cream, whipped
Hot cooked fresh asparagus.

Stir together mayonnaise, milk, salt and pepper in saucepan. Cook over very low heat, stirring constantly, until heated, about three minutes.

Stir in lemon juice and rind. Fold in whipped cream. Serve with asparagus. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

Note: This sauce goes well with artichokes, broccoli and cauliflower too.

2 tablespoons thinly sliced scallions
1 1/2 tablespoons drained, chopped sour pickle
1 1/2 tablespoons drained, chopped sweet pickle
1 tablespoon chopped pimento
1 tablespoon chopped olives
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
Cook asparagus and carrots in separate pans of boiling, salted water until tender, crisp about 15 minutes. Meanwhile, mix mayonnaise and milk in double boiler top. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and is smooth. Stir in scallions, pickles, pimento and olives, heat. Drain vegetables. Arrange asparagus on ends of serving platter, top with sauce. Toss carrots with melted margarine. Pile in center of platter. Makes about 6 servings.

Note: 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion may be substituted for scallions.

Chicken Is Plentiful, Delicious

Searching for new ways to serve chicken? Western Artichoke Chicken is simple to prepare and a gourmet treat. For another simple but tasty version, try Dieters' Delight Chicken.

Broiler-fryers are spotlighted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service as Plentiful - Food - to - Feature.

ARTICHOKE CHICKEN

1 3-lb. broiler-fryer cut-up
Salt, pepper
Paprika
3 tablespoons butter
1 15-oz. can artichoke hearts
1 16-oz. can whole onions
1 4-oz. can mushrooms
1 16-oz. can whole white potatoes
3 tablespoons flour
3/4 teaspoon rosemary, crushed
1/4 cup dry white wine
1 10-oz. can condensed onion soup

Season chicken with salt, pepper and paprika. Brown both sides well in butter. Place chicken pieces, skin side up, in a single layer in a shallow 2-quart casserole. Drain the vegetables and arrange with chicken. In a medium saucepan combine flour and crushed rosemary; gradually stir in wine and soup. Cook, stirring several minutes. Pour sauce over chicken. Cover and bake in a 375 degree oven 50 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

DIETERS' DELIGHT CHICKEN

3 3-lb. broiler-fryer chickens, halved
3 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco
1 teaspoon paprika
4 tablespoons lime juice
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 teaspoons dried tarragon
Place chicken halves, skin side down, in shallow baking pan. Combine remaining ingredients to make marinade. Brush over chickens. Bake in a 375 degree oven 45 to 50 minutes; turning over after first 25 minutes and brushing occasionally with marinade. Makes six generous servings.

Fruit Surprise For Breakfast

Make better breakfast eaters by serving surprise cereal bowls to the little ones. Put a spoonful of canned fruit cocktail into cereal bowl, cover with hot cooked cereal and top with more of the fruits. Use syrup from fruit as sweetener and serve with cream or milk.

Garnish Adds Dessert Appeal

A simple baked custard served with a garnish of canned fruit cocktail is a dessert children will really enjoy. Makes it easy on the cook, too, because you can bake a dozen individual custards at the same time and keep them on hand in the refrigerator. Unmold at serving time and top with drained canned fruit cocktail.

Frozen Salad Spices Menu

Here's a salad to brighten up even a dull meal. Cream together a 3-ounce package cream cheese with 1/4 cup mayonnaise and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Fold in 1 cup whipped cream and one 30-ounce can well-drained canned fruit cocktail. Pour into freezing tray. Cut and serve on crisp salad greens.

On Pro-Tem
Judge Plan

The recently instituted "judge pro-tem program" in which attorneys in private practice sit in as judges in misdemeanor cases has set off with a halting start. District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson said today.

The program was originally set up so that cases would start on Thursdays and last no more than two days. An attorney would not then lose too much time from his own practice.

The first case, involving a drunk driver, ended up in a hung jury two weeks ago after being heard by Attorney Allan J. Bollhoffer. It lasted almost three days.

Yesterday the second case to be held, before San Mateo attorney Dick W. Bennett, was abruptly halted by the death of the husband of one of the jurors.

Sorenson said it has not been decided whether to declare a mistrial or to continue the trial at a later date. The defendant in this case was also accused of drunken driving.

of South San Francisco, and two sisters in Greece.

Funeral services were held on Monday, 1:30 p.m., at Mission Chapel, 435 Valencia Street, San Francisco. Services followed at Holy Trinity Church, 999 Brotherhood Way, San Francisco, with interment at Greek Memorial Park, Colma.

EDWARD J. LAUREL

Edward J. Laurel, 55, 104 Casper Avenue, South San Francisco, died suddenly at home Thursday.

He was a retired trumpet player, and a member of the Musician's Union, Local 6 of San Francisco.

He was a native of San Francisco and lived here for 22 years.

He is survived by his wife, Valentine, and four sons, John, Michael, James and Dennis, and three grandchildren.

FRANCIS RIDELL

Francis Ridell, 70, 628 Mayfield Avenue, South San Francisco, died Wednesday in San Francisco.

A native of Utah, he had lived here for 51 years. He was an automobile mechanic for Four-Wheel Brake.

He is survived by his sister,

Evelyn Ridell of South San Francisco.

Funeral services were held on Monday, 2 p.m., from the Garden Chapel, followed by interment at Cypress Lawn Cemetery.

JACK D. CONOVER

Jack D. Conover, 62, 27 Sonora Avenue, South San Francisco, died Wednesday in San Francisco.

A native of Utah, he had lived here for 51 years. He was an automobile mechanic for Four-Wheel Brake.

He is survived by his wife,

Beulah Conover of South San Francisco; his son, Robert Conover, of South San Francisco; five stepsons, Jerry, Jack, Dale and Dennis Conover of South San Francisco; his daughter, Jacqueline Williams of Utah; his stepdaughter, Carol Conover; his mother, Myrtle Wilfert of South San Francisco, and eight grandchildren.

Attorneys Named for Environment Study

A committee of four city attorneys to set up county-wide guidelines for all environmental impact studies now required for almost all new construction was set up by the Council of Mayors of San Mateo County meeting in Daly City Friday.

The committee was suggested by Councilman Thomas M. Jenkins of San Carlos, an attorney himself, who returned yesterday from a meeting of city attorneys in Los Angeles to discuss the impact of state legislation which requires the environmental impact studies on most new construction.

Within the last two weeks, Jenkins told the mayors, that the cost of a study for one project was estimated at $154,000, while the cheapest estimate he had heard of any such study was $11,000. The studies are required before any construction begins.

Under state legislation, Jenkins said, each city must adopt its own environmental guide.

"If we don't get together, we lines within already adopted state guidelines — which require studies to be undertaken for both private and public construction.

Because the law does not require developers to pay for all the costs of the studies, it was reported, the new law could add from 15 to 20 per cent to the administrative costs of a city.

According to Jenkins, everything from a planning commission variance to rezonings, gradings, subdivisions and even utility connection could require a study.

Initially, Jenkins said, a city staff must make a determination on every application to come before building department to require if it needs a study.

Although 12 general categories are excluded from the requirement, each application must be decided by a staff member if it falls within one of these or requires a study.

"If we don't get together, we are going to run into trouble," Jenkins warned the mayors.

"One city will run into a law suit and another city into the same lawsuit unless we set general guidelines."

Named to head the city attorneys' committee was Maurice K. Hamilton of San Mateo. Other attorneys are Wayne A. McFadden of Foster City, Albert Polonsky of Daly City, and Michael Aaronson of San Carlos. Deputy District Attorney Henry Dietz was also asked to meet with the attorneys, as the county is involved as well, and other city attorneys are invited to attend any meetings.

The committee is to report back to the mayors at their next meeting.
